McAdoo Refuses To Permit His Name To Go Before The Democratic Convention

Decision Irrevocable, Says McAdoo

NEW YORK, June 19.—William G. McAdoo, who has been considered by party leaders as one of the principal candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination, announced last night he could not permit his name to go before the San Francisco convention. "This decision," he said, "is irrevocable as the path of duty seems to me clear and unmistakable."

His decision was made known in a telegram to Jouett Shouse, Democratic delegate-at-large from Kansas, who has telegraphed Mr. McAdoo that sentiment throughout the country was rapidly crystallizing in his favor; that his friends would like to have him permit his name to be presented to the convention, and that they were certain he could be nominated and elected.

Mr. McAdoo's telegram follows:

"Your telegram of June 17 requires an explicit and immediate answer. I am profoundly grateful to you and my other generous friends who, with such spontaneity and unselfishness, have, without my solicitation, advocated my nomination. To cause them disappointment distresses me deeply, but I am unable to alter the position I have constantly maintained, namely, that I would not seek the nomination for the Presidency. I cannot, therefore, permit my name to go before the convention. This decision is irrevocable, as the path of duty seems to me clear and unmistakenable.

His Private Affairs Compel It

"The considerations which compelled me to resign as secretary of the treasury and director-general of railroads, after the armistice in 1918, in large measure still prevail. I must have a reasonable opportunity to rehabilitate my private affairs and to make that provision for my family which, in time of peace, is at once the sacred duty and the cherished desire of every right-thinking man. Having been out of office less than 18 months, I have not yet been able to accomplish these objects. Moreover, a Presidential campaign imposes upon the candidate unavoidable expenses which I am unable to assume, and which I do not want my friends to assume.

Wants Liberal Platform

"The record of the recent Republican congress and the platform and candidates of the Republican national convention make Democratic victory in the next election almost certain. Victory will be certain if the Democrats adopt a straight-forward, unequivocal, aggressive, honest and liberal platform and put forward candidates who will command public confidence. We must stand squarely for ratification of the League of Nations without mitigating reservations, and we must be direct and explicit on the important domestic issues. The times are not propitious for equivocation or for appeals to blind passions or doctrines of hate or for reactionaries and those who would shut their ears to the great and swelling voice of humanity, which cries aloud for the restoration of peace and good will at home and in the world, and for the opportunity to live in an atmosphere of justice, progress and prosperity.

"I feel sure that my friends will appreciate the sincerity and propriety of my position, and that they will do everything in their power at San Francisco to assure the continuation of the

Head Of "Gimbels" Arrested For Profiteering

NEW YORK, June 19.—Frederick Gimbel, first vice president of Gimbel Brothers, department store, with branches in many cities, was arrested today by department of justice agents on a charge of profiteering in clothing. Gimbel is head of the New York store.

J. J. Dowdell, general merchandise manager of the store, and C. B. Slawter, clothing buyer, also were arrested on similar charges. All three are charged with making profits in clothing of from 90 to 275 percent. The warrants were served by Lester S. Kafer, special assistant to Attorney General Palmer, heading one of the flying squadrons investigating profiteering here.

The arrests came as a surprise at the store and officials there at first stated that they believed there must have been an error.

S. H. Coons, advertising director of Gimbel Brothers, gave out the following statement:

"We have not had time to look into the matter. It is possible that in a business so great as this there might be one or two more isolated pieces of merchandise marked at a higher price than is provided for in the regulations. All we know is that it is, and has been our desire and intention, to comply with all government regulations."

The warrants served this morning were issued by United States Commissioner Hitchcock on complaints of flying squadron agents who charged four specific instances of profiteering.

One of the highest profits alleged to have been made was at an advertised sale of men's clothing. It is charged that a suit costing $5.50 was sold for $20, another suit, costing $15, was sold for $43, and still another suit costing $5.50 was sold for $15.00." It is also charged that a suit costing $43 was sold $50.

The agents making the complaints said they had been investigating the Gimbel store for two weeks and that they had gone to Mr. Gimbel a few days ago and informed him of profits made in clothing. According to the agent, John J. Mitchell, Mr. Gimbel placed the responsibility for the alleged mark up in prices on Mr. Slawter, and "threatened to discharge him."

Mitchell said Mr. Gimbel was amazed when informed of the sale prices of the clothing and was much perturbed this morning when arrested.

A crowd gathered outside the federal building awaiting the arrival of the three men. When Mr. Gimbel and Mr. Dowdell arrived they met with a slight mishap on mounting the stairs to the third floor when they collided with a motion picture photographer, and all three fell in a heap, splintering the camera tripod.

Gimbel, Dodwell and Slawter were released in 1,000 bail each when arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock. July sixth was set for their preliminary examinations.

J. J. Price, special agent investigating the Gimbel firm, said that the specific charges upon which warrants were served today, represented a selection out of 185 which have been laid before the grand jury.

Charges of profiteering in the sale of foodstuffs are pending against the firm of Gimbel Brothers in Philadelphia, Mr. Price said.

Troops Guard Jail Where Negroes Held

DULUTH, MINN., June 19.—National guardsmen from the state encampment at Fort Snelling, arrived here early today to reinforce the guard about the St. Louis county jail where 14 negroes are being held in connection with an attack upon a young white girl. The soldiers are armed with machine guns and rifles and will have orders to "shoot to kill" if necessary to uphold the law.

The request for the troops was made last night by Sheriff Magle, of St. Louis county, to Governor Burnquist at St. Paul. The sheriff declared he had information that an organized attack was to be made tonight on the county jail in an effort to lynch the negroes. Last Tuesday night a mob of 5,000 persons wrecked the city jail and hanged three negroes arrested in connection with the attack on the girl.

The 101 guardsmen are under command of Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow and four other officers.

Duluth early today was quiet. Officials declared they were confident the presence of the guardsmen would serve to aid in thwarting any plot to raid the jail.

Attempt Made To Kill The Former Kaiser

DOORN, HOLLAND, June 19.—An attempt against the life of former Emperor William of Germany, was made at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, according to persistent rumors here.

Details of the reported attempt are veiled in mystery, but it is asserted that William escaped without injury.

A villager, at first thought to be a Belgian, but later identified as a German, is said to have entered the castle by the use of a false permit and then tried to kill Count Hohenzollern.

M. Foreboom, private secretary to the former emperor, assured the Associated Press this morning that no attack had been made on William of Hohenzollern.

Dispatches received Thursday reported a Belgian, who succeeded in gaining admittance to the residence of William of Hohenzollern, had attacked the former emperor and wounded him in the jaw. Since then the report has been current that an attack had been made, but no confirmation of it has been received.

STRENGTH OF U. S. ARMY 213,135

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Estimated strength of the army on June 17, was 213,135 officers and enlisted men, of which 15,689 held commissioned grades, according to figures made public today by the war department. Since March 1, 1919, when active reenlistment began, 210,446 men have been enlisted and of this number 172,301 are still in service.

Poles Suffer Important Reverses

BERLIN, June 19.—Alarming reports of the military situation on the Polish-Bolshevik front are received by the Tageliche Rundschau from Breslau. The Poles have suffered important reverses, it is said, and in some parts of the front large bodies of troops may be forced to surrender.

Among the losses reported to have been suffered by the Poles, the report says, are two regiments of cavalry which were annihilated and 30,000 prisoners taken by the Bolsheviki, who also have captured 165 cannon. The fall of Minsk is expected, it is asserted.

The front from Dunaburg to Podolsk is yielding gradually, and belief is expressed that Warsaw may be occupied by Soviet troops. General Haller's men at Czenstochow have mutined and expelled some of their officers. Fugitives from Kiev have arrived in Lemberg, telling of a lack of food and ammunitions and of wholesale desertions by Polish troops.

Excitement prevails throughout Poland, the dispatch says, and state documents have been sent to Posen. The Polish minister to Germany told the Associated Press today, he had received no such reports and that he considered "them incredible."

NEW YORK, June 19.—The alarming views from Berlin concerning reported conditions on the Polish front are not shared by the official Polish Bureau of Information here, which stated today that its dispatches from Warsaw showed the Polish front was being strongly held some 350 to 400 miles east of Warsaw. This, it was pointed out, made it a physical impossibility for Warsaw to be threatened as the Berlin reports asserted.

The reports are attributed to exaggerated versions of the Polish evacuation of Kiev and the return of relief parties to Warsaw.

IRISH FACTIONS IN ALL NIGHT GUN BATTLE

LONDONDERRY, IRELAND, June 19—This city spent another night of terror last night as a result of violent pistol and rifle fighting between Nationalists and Unionists. There was a two hour pitched battle at the riverside. Comparative quiet was finally restored by the soldiery.

Many of the unionists engaged in the hostilities were ex-soldiers.

The small police force in the city was powerless in the face of the violence of the opposing parties and the military ultimately had to be called out. The efforts of the troops resulted in the restoration of comparatively tranquil conditions by midnight, although firing continued several hours more.

The reports received by the authorities during the morning showed that several men had been wounded in the fighting.

During the fray, armed parties of both factions controlled large areas in various parts of the city. These parties stopped all pedestrians whom they searched for arms.

Londonderry was the scene of violent rioting on Saturday night May 15, Unionists and Nationalists clashing for hours in parts of the Ulster city. A policeman was killed by the rioters and many persons were wounded during the fighting. The rioting was renewed on Sunday and hundreds of troops had to be brought to the scene. It was not until well into the week that the city was fully quieted down. The principal trouble area was between the Unionists quarter of Fountain streets and the Sinn Fein quarter of Bridge street.

KANSAS CITY, MO., June 19.—Habeas corpus petitions on behalf of 39 negro prisoners now serving life sentences in the federal prison at Leavenworth were up for hearing before Judge John C. Pollock in the United States district court in Kansas City, Kansas today.

The 39 were received at the prison in December, 1917, sentenced by court martial for participation in a riot by negro troops of the 24th Infantry at Houston, August 24, 1917, in which 12 white men, police officers, national guardsmen and civilians were killed. Thirteen negroes, convicted by court martial, were hanged. President Wilson confirmed the life sentences imposed on the 39.

WAR HERO IS NEW HEAD AMERICAN MARINES

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Appointment of Major General John A. Lejeune as major general commandant of the marine corps, to succeed Major George Barnett, was announced today by Secretary Daniels.

General Lejeune commanded the famous second division when it broke the German line in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and the secretary said his appointment to command the marine corps in line with the policy of the department to reward the officers who served with distinction during the war. General Lejeune was to take charge of the corps next week.

Mr. Daniels said that General Barnett had served more than six years as commander of the marine corps and that his reappointment two years ago was for a term of four years or at the pleasure of the president. He explained that General Barnett could elect to be retired with the rank of major general or continue to serve in the corps with the rank of brigadier general. General Barnett has not yet decided as to this.

Mr. Daniels said General Lejeune was regarded as not only one of the ablest officers of the marine corps, but one of the most distinguished soldiers of the world war. He commanded the second division not only in the Meuse-Argonne offensive but also at St. Mihiel and Mont Blanc Ridge.

The secretary said he had decided after the end of the war to make General Lejeune commandant of the marine corps; but that the appointment was held in abeyance because General Barnett was then engaged in making up the estimates of the marine corps, for the next fiscal year.

EUROPEAN PREMIERS TO MEET TO DISCUSS GRAVE PROBLEMS DEMANDING IMMEDIATE SOLUTION

LONDON, June 19.—A conference between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand, of France, has been arranged for this afternoon and Sunday at Hythe, the watering place in Kent which was the scene of the notable conference between the two prime ministers in May over the German indemnity terms.

The Hythe meeting is preliminary to the conference at Boulogne on Monday at which not only France and Great Britain but Italy, Japan, Belgium and Greece will be represented. From Hythe the premiers will proceed early on Monday for Boulogne.

LONDON, June 19.—Great interest is being taken here in the meeting of representatives of the great powers at Boulogne, France on Monday and there is much speculation here in view of the grave problems demanding solution throughout Europe and the near East.

The original idea was for a conference of Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand, but it seems to have been expanded to a meeting in which France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Greece will participate.

Newspapers of London calling attention to the serious issues affecting the relations of the allies with Russia, Turkey, Germany, Hungary and Poland remark the state of the world is more perilous than it was two years ago, and call for "clear decisions based on singleness of purpose and free from self-seeking individuals."

The menace of the Turkish nationalists in Anatolia exceeds for the moment, in the view of editors here, other dangers, the situation amounting, according to several estimates, to the outbreak of a new war.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Nationalists, is said to completely control Anatolia with the exception of a small area held by the British in the neighborhood of Ismid and some territory around Smyrna controlled by Greece. His forces comprise 37,000 fighting men who are well supplied with munitions and have abundant available reinforcements.

What remains of the Turkish government is declared to be helpless and its troops which are reported to be utterly untrustworthy, have been recalled from the Ismid peninsula. Additional anxiety over the situation has been caused by the belief that Mustapha Kemal is acting in accord with the Russian Bolshevik government, although there have not been as yet any reports of co-operation.

Against the Turkish situation and other distractions, with which the Boulogne conference will be faced may be set apparently reliable reports that hopeful progress has been made relative to the apportionment of the German indemnity, as between Great Britain and France, which lately caused friction. Arrangements which will probably satisfy the claims of Italy to compensation are also under consideration, it is understood.

Amos Pinchot and his associates in the "committee of 48" have issued a call for a convention to form a third party in Chicago July 10. A prominent figure in the movement is Allan McCurdy, executive secretary of the "committee of 48."

ROUSING SEND-OFF IS GIVEN COX DELEGATION TO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

DAYTON, O., June 19.—Dayton citizens and Ohio Democrats joined today in a community demonstration for Governor James M. Cox, Ohio's favorite son, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president. The demonstration was a prelude to the departure of Ohio's delegation to the San Francisco convention, every one of which is pledged to vote for the governor.

Several thousand admirers of Governor Cox made the pilgrimage to Trail's End, the suburban home of the governor, following a parade of political organizations through the business section of the city, this afternoon. Participating in the parade and demonstration were delegations from Cincinnati and Columbus. A feature of the parade was several score automobiles carrying the women and driven exclusively by women.

At the governor's home, addresses were made by United States Senator Atlee Pomerene, and former Governor James E. Campbell, delegates-at-large to the convention, and William G. Pickrel, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Dayton district. Governor Cox responded by wishing the delegation a happy journey.

Members of the Ohio delegation and other Democratic leaders today expressed gratification over the announcement by William G. McAdoo that he is not a candidate and that his name must not be presented to the convention. They declare McAdoo's elimination practically clinches the nomination of Ohio's governor. Governor Cox made no comment on Mr. McAdoo's statement.

Two special trains bearing the Ohio delegation and some 450 boosters are to leave at 8:30 tonight on the long journey to San Francisco. Bands will accompany the party and everything has been arranged by Colonel J. H. Bowling to care for their committee on the trip. A stop will be made by the specials at Kansas City tomorrow afternoon, where special arrangements have been made for their entertainment. Additional special trains with boosters for the governor are scheduled to leave Columbus Monday evening. There was no attempt today on the part of the governor's friends to conceal their gratification over his prospects for receiving the nomination. All were in the highest spirits as they participated in the events of the day.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Treasury officials today expedited payment of $35 to Michael McGarvey, an employe of the Brooklyn navy-yard for a new set of false teeth, which congress decided he was entitled to as a result of an accident in which he was struck on the head by a heavy board and the other set of teeth demolished.

Harding Not To Take A Vacation

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Senator Warren G. Harding today had abandoned his plan for taking a vacation and remained in Washington for further conferences with party leaders. It was said these conferences, held for the purpose of learning the views of, and bringing together in harmonious organization, various factions of the party, likely would be continued until the nominee leaves for his home in Marion, where he will be notified formally of his nomination.

The date of the notification still was undecided today but an announcement as to that was expected. Senator Harding still was receiving belated congratulations and promises of support from Republican leaders throughout the country and many of them called in person to discuss with him issues of the forthcoming campaign. All were agreed that the first and most essential step was to bring about harmony and to weld into one organization all elements of the party.

MCGOWAN TRIAL DRAGGING ON; COURT ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY

When it becomes apparent that it would be impossible to even finish the evidence today in the trial of the suit of the John H. McGowan company against the city of Portsmouth, which started in Common Pleas court last Monday, Judge Stephenson halted the proceedings and Saturday noon adjourned court until Monday morning when the case will be resumed.

Former Mayor Adam Frick and Ralph Calvert, service director under the Kape administration, were the principal witnesses called on in behalf of the city at the Saturday session of court.

The defense threw a bomb into the camp of the enemy Saturday through the introduction of a line of correspondence which passed between Mayor Frick and the plaintiff company and which, the attorneys for the city declared, clearly refutes the contention of claimants that they made repeated demands to obtain acceptance of the waterworks plant early in the year 1916. The correspondence showed that no formal demand for the acceptance of the plant was made until Dec. 13, 1915, in a letter to J. P. Whitmer consulting engineer who was in charge of the building of the plant. Attorneys for the city claim the correspondence clearly knocks out the claim of the plaintiffs contained in the tenth cause of action for approximately $10,000 for extra labor.

Scouts Celebrate

The Scouts of Sciotoville, Troop 11, last night celebrated the winning of the Basket Ball pennant for the season of 1920, with a banquet, given to them by the citizens of Sciotoville, and the ladies of the Christian church. The banquet was given in recognition of the fact that this is the first pennant ever brought to Sciotoville by the Boy Scouts.

After supper, Scout Executive Gillilan gave the Scouts a short talk, emphasizing the fact that Scouts were being trained for good citizens and that they must make good. He also spoke of the swimming classes, baseball leagues, over-night hikes, summer camp, and other activities the Scouts are enjoying this summer and invited them to take part.

At the close the Scout Executive formally presented the pennant to Troop 11, which was accepted by their Scout master, Charles Reinhard.

Auto Driver Is Exonerated

O. P. Ramey, local resident who was held in Toledo jail Thursday following the death of a woman about fifty years old, who died as the result of injuries sustained when a new Chevrolet automobile he was driving through to this city, struck the woman while on a grade crossing of a railroad, has been exonerated.

The inquest in the case was held Friday morning and after the inquest, the coroner in charge, exonerated Ramey, and ordered his release from jail. According to testimony given by the only eye witness to the scene, a Toledo resident, Ramey sounded his horn in plenty of time for the woman to get out of the way and she kept on walking until she was directly in the path of the machine. The testimony showed that Ramey was driving carefully and slowly and could not be held responsible for the accident and death of the woman, who died of internal injuries and a fractured skull.

Ramey who lives on the Rosecrans arrived home at midnight Friday from Toledo. Word of Ramey's exoneration was received Friday afternoon by Adolph Glockner, local agent for Chevrolet automobile, who had a friend in Toledo looking after Ramey's part in the case.

Mrs. Dunn Loses $46

Mrs. L. F. Dunn of 1627 High street reported to the police today that a bill folder containing $46 was lost or stolen from her yesterday while she was in the Lyric Theatre or after she got on a Hilltop car.

The leather bill folder was in her large velvet bag and Mrs. Dunn cannot conceive how the bill folder was lost since the purse was not open when she discovered the loss last night.

NICK ALTROCK HAS GIRL UNDERSTUDY

"Uncle" Nick and Miss Dot Meloy in one of their poses.

Nick Altrock, baseball's greatest comedian, who spent his off season as a guard at the national capital, helped entertain fans at a series of ball games staged by teams of the war risk bureau by springing his funny stuff. And he also surprised folks by introducing Miss Dot Meloy, one of the bureau girls, as his partner in the comedy stuff. Nick taught her many of his famous stunts

To Test the Hearing.

The man with normal hearing can distinguish in a quiet room the ticking of a watch held in the hand of another person five feet away. A man with normal hearing can hear distinctly every word of a conversation being carried on 70 feet away. Again, if you are sitting in a concert room, a theater or a church, do you, when listening to the words of the speaker, lean forward in your seat in order to hear more clearly? If you do, it is a sign that your hearing is less normal than the rest of the audience; and the same applies, of course, to others who find it difficult to catch the words when sitting in a natural position. If you are talking to a person in the street you may find yourself listening acutely for every word he may utter. Such a practice may have become a habit with you; it shows, at any rate, that your hearing is not what it ought to be. If your hearing is not normal—see your doctor at once.

Luxurious Roman Belles.

The belles of Rome were fond of jewelry—rings, pins, bracelets, necklaces, earrings. They were very fond of diamonds, however. Not because diamonds were expensive, but for a far more important reason—because they were not stylish. No prejudice kept the fair charmer of Rome from the use of cosmetics and face powder to enhance her beauty. With oils and tonics rubbed into her scalp, she strove to make her hair thick and lustrous. If nature had been niggardly she supplemented the scant tresses with curls or switches. If the color of her hair was unbecoming she might, and often did, dye it. And red hair, he it said, golden red hair, was the popular shade which made many a Roman matron seek the ancient equivalent of the henna shampoo.

Etiquette of the Revolving Door.

The etiquette of the revolving door has yet to be standardized. At present there are two schools of opinion on the subject. One holds that when a man and a woman approach a revolving door it is the man's place to go first, pushing the door slowly so as to allow his partner to follow in the next compartment without any effort on her part. The other contends that ladies first still holds sway. It is good manners, these theorists say, for the man to step aside, let the woman start the door revolving, and then jump into the compartment behind her. In this way, it is contended, the man may assume control of the door and guide it until the woman ahead of him is safely out. The bitterest rivalry prevails between the two schools.—New York Evening Post.

Italian "City of Crime."

The only town in the world which can boast of possessing more criminals than law-abiding folk is the Italian city of Artena, which is known as the City of Crime. For several hundred years nearly every criminal who has escaped prison or done time in Italy has emigrated to Artena, and today practically every inhabitant of the place is a criminal or the child of a criminal.

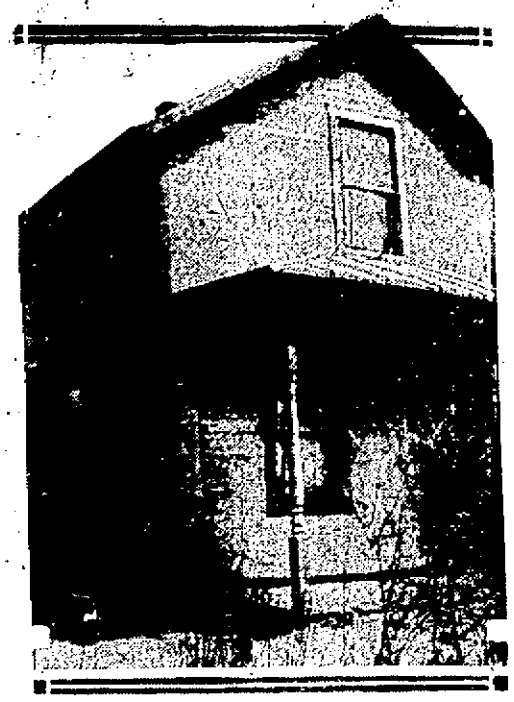
Iron Bolt in Nose Many Years.

Dr. Irving Wilson Voorhees had recently, in the West Side dispensary, New York, to attend a man of thirty-four for serious trouble in his nose. The surgeon discovered far up the right nostril an iron bolt 2 1-8 inches long, half an inch wide and weighing more than an ounce. This had been there for 15 years, it having been driven in by the explosion of a gun he was trying to make. The man had never been able to find that bolt, but, strangely enough, had never looked for it in his nose and never suspected its presence.

How to Test Set Diamond.

A set diamond may be tested by placing wax on its back. The luster of a true gem will not be affected by this operation, while the spurious brilliancy of paste imitations will be totally destroyed by it.

THIS PLAIN LITTLE HOUSE MAY BECOME FAMOUS AS BIRTHPLACE OF PRESIDENT



Where Senator Harding was born.

This house, still standing in the village of Bloominggrove, Morrow county, Ohio, just north of Mt. Gilead, is where Senator Warren G. Harding was born on November 2, 1865. Should the senator, named as the presidential candidate of the Republican party, win in the election this house will take its place with other historic structures. Citizens of Morrow county are said to be planning to obtain an option on the house and restore it to its original condition if Harding wins.

WILL KEEP DOWN THE DUST

The Bureau of Community Service is placing a new hydrant in Tracy Park, close to the swings, so that the ground around the swings may be sprinkled when the dust becomes annoying. Last summer those living in the neighborhood were annoyed by the blowing into their houses and porches of the dust from the playgrounds, and the Bureau of Community Service, which has the playgrounds of the city in its charge, has taken this way of remedying the nuisance.

When Sleep Will Not Come.

Don't hate the world and kick all night just because you don't happen to go to sleep. It damages your own nervous system, and any tender regard in which your roommate may have held you. Anger eats up energy and is responsible for next morning's very unpleasant day-after feeling. The lack of sleep mattered not at all. If instead of thrashing about viciously you had curled up cozily and daydreamed, your night might have been salvaged, all might have been well.—Exchange.

The Native Companion.

Australia in the north has a very handsome bird, the native companion (Grus Australasianus), and so very sociable with the white man. It is a very large bird, larger than any turkey, but not so large as an emu, and it flies—emus do not. It has long legs standing four feet high, gray feathers, head green. In company it will dance a quadrille most merrily. When flying it stretches its long legs out; when alighting it jumps several times before it can stop, and on rising it takes a run before it flies away.

Sydney's Future Assured.

Sydney, about the size of Cleveland or Detroit, is the largest city in the eastern hemisphere south of the equator and is destined soon to reach a population of 1,000,000. It has a magnificent harbor, ranking with the harbors of New York city, Rio Janeiro and Hongkong, among the finest in the world. More than 200 miles of water front are available, much of which is occupied by public parks and private residences, though ultimately available for commerce if required. The founders of the city wisely provided for an abundance of open space, now utilized in parks and public grounds, with a multitude of excellent roadways and beautiful trees. Flower beds are everywhere. Detached houses are the rule. As in other cities of Australasia, a very large share of the population is located in suburbs, with abundant room.

The inhabitants of China are counted every year in a curious manner. The eldest master of every ten houses has to count the families and make a list, which is sent to the imperial tax house.

PALMER WARNS AGAINST PRICE FIXING PACTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Warning that agreements between manufacturers and dealers which prevent dealers from reducing the selling prices of manufactured articles is unlawful was sounded today by the department of justice as part of its campaign to lower the cost of living.

Indictments recently were obtained against the Colgate Company, Attorney General Palmer stated, charging criminal violations of the Sherman act for procuring agreements with dealers to adhere to fixed re-sale prices. Absence of formal contracts will not avoid the provisions of the law, according to the attorney general as in the Colgate case the agreements in some instances consisted in the exchange of letters or in purely oral conversations.

General reduction in prices is expected by officials of the department as the result of the clear definition of the law as it is pointed out that many merchants have been unable to cooperate in the campaign to lower living costs, because of the fixed prices on certain manufactured articles.

WATER POWER BILL, TEN YEARS IN MAKING, FINALLY BECOMES LAW

WASHINGTON, June 19—The water power development bill, ten years in the making, finally has become law.

Announcement that President Wilson had signed the measure prior to June 11, was made late yesterday at the White House. At the same time it was announced that he had failed to sign the joint resolution repealing most of the war-time laws and the Underwood resolution, providing for negotiation with Canada relative to the embargo on the shipment of wood pulp to the United States.

Another bill which failed to receive the President's approval would have authorized the war department to transfer motor equipment to the department of agriculture for road construction and other work.

Besides the water power measure, the President signed seven bills passed in the closing days of the recent session of congress. They included an act authorizing the enlistment in the military forces of non-English speaking citizens and aliens, an act paying for a set of false teeth for Michael MacDarvey and five bridge bills.

No explanation of the delay in answer of the water power measure was made.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE OF Nellie Leona McGinnis

Who was killed by lightning June 10th, 1917.

Just blooming into womanhood—
It was a dreadful blow;
She was so kind, so pure and good—
This all the people know.

That bolt which came so swift and bold
Which took away her breath,
And left our Nellie stiff and cold,
Wrapped in the arms of Death.

Don't think that God did Nellie kill;
Ah! No! He means no creature ill,
The lightnings flashing from the skies
Were seeking not to close her eyes.

She stood within the electric path,
Was not the victim of God's wrath.
For her the bolt was never sent,
So dry your tears and live content.

Nellie has gone, we should not weep,
Though her body lies in the grave asleep.
For this promise to us is given:
We shall meet Nellie up in Heaven.

Yes, Nellie now stands clothed in white
In that glorious land of pure delight.
There, when this tiffed life is o'er,
We will meet to part no more.

Boys Have All Night Hike To Turkey Creek

"Naw, the water wasn't so cold! I'll say we're going again."

Sixteen boys from the Daily Vacation Bible School at the First Presbyterian church enjoyed an all-night hike last night, camping at the Jackson place on Turkey Creek, in charge of Mr. L. E. Butler, principal of the school. Autos took them to their destination last evening and on their return this morning they shifted for themselves, arriving in town decidedly enthusiastic for D. V. B. S. in general and camping in particular. Mr. Butler plans to take the boys for another outing next Friday night.

The Community D. V. B. S. at the First Presbyterian in which Bigelow M. E. and First Evangelical are splendidly cooperating have been a decided success this week. The average for the week in attendance has been 119, with a top figure of 161 present at Friday's session. Miss Gertrude Fayne of Toledo gave a demonstration yesterday morning of the possibilities of organized play, the older and younger boys and girls spending half an hour in the gym solving the intricacies of "Farmer in the Dell," "Swat Tag" and "Ghosie" the boys excelling when it came to the races. It is Mr. Butler's plan to make use of the afternoons for game periods thus increasing the fun-hours and not cutting down the more serious work in the classrooms in the morning.

This is strictly a Community School. Children of any denomination or no denomination are uniformly welcome. Parents are urged to visit and see what their children are or ought to be doing.

Red Cross Holds Meeting At Rarden

Neither heat nor rain clouds have prevented the recent programs given under the auspices of the Scioto County Chapter, American Red Cross, from having remarkable success. The past week, three programs were rendered. Clay township, Otway and Rarden.

Tuesday evening, Clay township had a garden party on Mrs. Arthur Yeager's lawn. All the benches provided, were filled, and still more people came. The lawn was filled. With the porch as a stage, the auto lamps and Japanese lanterns made a beautiful effect, and the efficient song leader led the crowd in those popular songs that made the air fairly ring with joy. The Ladies' Aid Society of the Five Mile Church, delighted not only themselves with the proceeds, but every one who partook of their ice cream and home made cake

Wednesday evening, June the 16th, came the Otway meeting. It was a pleasure just to see Mr. J. Walsh, Sr., join in the whistling of "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia."

Of all the meetings, the largest attendance was at Rarden, Friday, June the 18th, at the Methodist church. In the endeavor to compete with Otway singers, Mrs. Samuel Timmonds found that Rarden has some patriotic spirit and "pep" that will long be remembered. Not one of these meetings has been disappointing in numbers or enthusiasm. In furnishing an evening of joy to these county neighbors, the local talent invariably feel great satisfaction.

But the work goes on by day as well as by night. Thursday, June the 17th, four operations were performed with the co-operation of physicians from Hempstead Academy. Saturday, June the 19th, nine children came into the office for free dental work. In all of this phase of the Red Cross work, the dentists and doctors deserve the highest commendation.

700 Delegates For Beer, Says Vick

CHICAGO, June 19.—Walker W. Vick, of New York, campaign manager for Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, in Chicago today on his way to San Francisco, declared in a statement that there would be not less than seven hundred delegates in the Democratic National Convention in favor of a modification of the Volstead act, permitting the use of light wines and beers in such states as wish to do so with state control, of regulation under a general and liberal federal act.

"Opposition to the eighteenth amendment is not today a political issue," Mr. Vick's statement said. "But the Volstead act is open to amendment, as had been pointed out by Governor Edwards and by such a distinguished Republican authority as Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania.

"The Volstead act is so extreme that it has placed in the criminal class millions of women who make the home-grown fruit light wines for domestic use; millions of farmers who make and mature cider from their orchards; it places under a ban millions of our citizens who for generations have regarded light wines and beers as much a part of their daily food as the bread upon their tables."

A HOSTAGE TO VANITY

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

It was vanity and opportunity that caused Muriel Dyson to fall into the temptation and error of her life. Roger Bird had invited her to the opera and for his sake she wished to appear at her best. It needed no art to enhance her natural beauty and gracefulness, but like every young girl, self adornment appealed to her and the chance of her life to particularly shine in the eyes of others lured her into a maze of trouble.

She had been the home teacher of little Mina and Paul Secrist, children of very wealthy parents, and both Mr. and Mrs. Secrist were kindly indulgent to her and allowed her to share in the best there was in the house. The parents were going away for a few days and Mrs. Secrist, who had learned of Roger's invitation, spoke pleasantly the morning of their departure.

"You are at liberty to wear my opera cloak tomorrow evening, Muriel, and any of my trinkets of jewelry that meet your fancy," she said.

"Oh, thank you!" beamed the delighted Muriel, "you are too kind to me."

"I fear I am working against my own interest in encouraging Mr. Bird to some day steal you away from us," said Mrs. Secrist smilingly.

"Oh, I think there is no danger of that," responded the blushing Muriel, but secretly hoped so.

Everybody about the house idolized the charming girl who had a smile and a kind word for the humblest menial. They all exhibited interest and sympathy in her anticipated evening of enjoyment with the manly, handsome young fellow who was to escort her to the opera. All the afternoon the housekeeper and the nurse took charge of the children so that Muriel would have ample leisure to prepare and dress for the occasion.

About dusk Muriel went into Mrs. Secrist's room of which she had been left the key. She was enchanted to think of the generous invitation to use what articles of jewelry she liked and a modest neck pin and a ring with a neat setting were chosen and worn with complacent happiness. Pleased and satisfied with her choice, Muriel was about to go downstairs when chancing to open a drawer, her eyes were fixed upon an article of adornment that fairly fascinated her. In enraptured ecstacy Muriel feasted her eyes on the beautiful necklace that looked up at her from its nest of satin.

"It is the lovely one that Mrs. Secrist wears on grand occasions, so precious and envied," she murmured. "Run careless to leave such a valuable belonging in an unlocked drawer. Oh, you beauties! How does it look on me? Oh, if I dared—if I dared!"

She thrilled and trembled at the suggestion of what a rare three hours pleasure she could have from wearing this marvel of worth and beauty. Her breath came quick as she gazed upon her reflection in the mirror. How proud Roger would be of her! For once she could pose as a grand lady, indeed. Yes, she dared. Where was the harm? She would return it safely and no one would be the wiser."

"You make one think of some royal queen," Roger whispered to her as removing her wraps at the opera house she suggested the acme of royal opulence. Muriel was in a fervent glow of delight all that evening. The tender parting words of Roger rewarded her for looking so lovely. She ran up the stairs to her room satisfied, jubilant, perfectly happy, and then—

"The necklace! It's gone!" fell from her appalled lips.

Well might the words almost scream from her ashen lips. Well might she quiver and reel. She sank to a chair gasping for breath. A cold horror came into her face. Then she ran down the stairs through the vestibule even out to the curb, looking everywhere, returning sick at heart, weeping in despair that seemed to shroud the world in darkness. She restored the opera cloak to its wonted cabinet and stole to her bed feeling guilty as some thief.

She passed a restless night, in the morning sending word to the housekeeper that she was ill. Roger called, to go away anxious and desponding, for she would not see him. What would Mrs. Secrist say at the loss of her priceless possession? How could she atone for this reckless dalliance with vanity at such a frightful cost?

Muriel dreaded the hour when confession must come. She shrank down among the pillows the second morning when she heard Mrs. Secrist in the hall solicitously inquiring about her.

"The poor dear!" sounded the sweetly sympathetic tones, "I must console and nurse her. Tell the house to be very quiet until our dear is quite well again."

"Oh, Mrs. Secrist! the necklace!" burst forth Muriel as the lady entered the room, and then she was dumb as her startled eyes fell upon the necklace in Mrs. Secrist's hand.

"Yes, I found it caught in the lining of my opera cloak. It is only the replica, you know, worn for ordinary occasion. The real necklace is at my banker's. Why, my love—quick! quick!" screamed Mrs. Secrist. "Miss Muriel has fainted away."

It was to arouse sobbing out in the loving arms of the kind-hearted lady the wretched story of her two days of dread and sorrow, a hostage to vanity.

The girls of the period dot the landscape o'er.

SOCIETY

A very interesting engagement was announced Friday when Miss Katherine Hull entertained the Wildflights at her home on Second street with a one o'clock luncheon honoring her guest Miss Florence Riley whose engagement to Mr. Harold B. Shumway was made known to these close friends of the honoree.

At the beautifully appointed luncheon, the table was artistically decorated with a huge bowl of pink roses in the center of which was a kewpie bride, wearing the engagement ring. The mystery was divulged when the guests spied on the place cards of wedding slippers, the initials H. B. S. F. R. R. Much surprise and merriment prevailed after this feature.

Following the delectable four-course luncheon, the members enjoyed the afternoon playing bridge. Those present were Misses Dorothy Dowling, Katherine Appel, Alice Vincent, Helen Dawson, Edna Hauck, Thelma Rickey, Dorothy Verner, the honoree guest and the hostess.

Miss Riley is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Riley of Cambridge, formerly of Portsmouth, and is a graduate of the local High School. She is a beautiful girl and very popular in the younger set.

Mr. Shumway is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Shumway, 840 Seventh street. He attended Ohio Wesleyan until the past few months when he accepted a splendid position with the Goodyear Rubber Co., of Akron. The date of the wedding was not made known.

Honoring Miss Bess Goodman, fiancee of Mr. John Dalton, Mrs. Henry Garner (Margaret Cassidy) Misses Agnes and Catherine Cassidy entertained with a lovely party and miscellaneous shower Friday evening at their home on Seventh street. The dainty colors of pink and white were used effectively throughout the rooms in baskets and vases of Dorothy Perkins roses. A pink and white basket filled with lovely gifts were presented to the bride-elect by little Miss Margaret Ellen Ford. At a late hour the guests were invited to the dining room which was beautiful in minute detail with the soft glow of shaded candles and lamps and the profusion of flowers.

Covers were laid for twenty guests. At the bride-elect's table a miniature bridal party, including the bride, groom, minister and bridesmaids standing on a banking of roses, under an arch of the same with ferns and wedding bells, made an appropriate and beautiful centerpiece. At each end of the table, soft glowing candles of pink, with streamers of pink and white satin ribbons were used. Hand painted place cards with pink hearts bearing the names Goodman-Dalton marked the places of each guest.

Tiny pink rosebuds filled with pink and white mints were given as favors. An ice course in the same colors was served to the following guests: Misses Bess Goodman, Sadie Turner, Alma Frantz, Josephine Doerr, Matilda Schroeder, Mary Gerken, Grace Lang, Gertrude Gerken, Jeanette Learch, Marjorie McMasters, Minnie Pontenny, Mabel Kennedy, Marguerite Schroeder Clara Egan, of Chicago, guest of Miss Goodman; Mesdames Lee R. Turner, Wilbur Runyan and the hostesses.

Mrs. C. E. Kepperling and daughter, Ruth, of Winchester, Ohio, are visiting Mrs. Elvie Mitchel of the Washington hotel.

Miss Clara Fields entertained delightfully with a miscellaneous shower at her home on Highland avenue Friday evening, honoring Mrs. Jack Liggett, a bride of recent date.

The evening was spent in games and dancing. Miss Ruth Jeffords and Miss Sallie Reed won the prizes of the evening. The favors were yellow roses and delightful announcement cards. Those present were: Misses Bess Sheets, Alma Oats, Ruth Jeffords, Katherine Hoertel, Sallie Reed, Hattie Long, Irma Werner, Ruth Reesinger, Beatrice Atkinson, Marie McGlothlin, Myrtle Partlowe, Holly Parker, Mrs. Vida Procter, Mrs. Ira Brumfield, Mrs. John Dixon, Mrs. Liggett and the hostess.

Fred Vallard and daughter, Miss Esther Vallard of 2411 Eighth street, and Mr. Vallard's son-in-law, Ralph Brady and son Arden, left Saturday for a two weeks outing at Detroit and Battle Creek, Mich.

The strawberry and ice-cream social given by Roger Selby's Sunday School Class of Bigelow church Friday evening on the lawn of the church, was a splendid success. The tables were decorated in red and pink rambler roses, giving a festive effect on the lawn, which was electrically lighted for the occasion. The members were gratified with the results from the pleasant evening's entertainment in a social and financial way.

The Friday Night Book Club enjoyed a delightful meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leichner, 1261 Franklin avenue.

The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. J. Oscar Kanouse of Twelfth street.

Mrs. B. C. Willim, of Vanceburg, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCormick, of Sixth street, while here to be with her daughter, Miss Helen Willim, who is in Hempstead Hospital.

Mrs. Homer Vallandingham and children, of Covington, Ky., arrived Saturday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Jordan, of East Portsmouth.

DISOWNED

By EVELYN LEE

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

What was that—the wind?

Wilson Brody started up from his cozy arm chair before a blazing fire in the grate and bent his ear toward the window past which the tempest was sweeping with vibrating force.

"It sounded like a shriek—a woman's scream," replied Eunice, his sister.

Brody hurried on hat and coat and hastened out into the yard. As he came fully out into the street he was startled to observe a girl in the refulgence of a street lamp, her hand raised bewilderedly to her head, just arising from the sidewalk.

"Are you hurt? What is it?" he inquired solicitously, and caught her by the arm to steady her, noting a sweet, innocent face and gentle eyes, but just now filled with fear.

"A man!" gasped the girl breathlessly. "He pushed me and I fell. He tore my satchel from my hand."

"There it is!" exclaimed Brody, as he noticed ten feet away the object in question. It lay open, some of its contents being scattered on the sidewalk. Brody went to pick it up and the girl clung to the lamp post as he gathered up the articles.

"I must have been followed. I feared it half a mile back from here—but why?"

"There were valuables?" questioned Brody.

"No, only my few belongings and some papers. Oh, see, sir!" she cried in poignant alarm, as she groped among the contents of the bag. "They are gone!"

"If you will tell me where you live I will see you safely home," suggested Brody, kindly.

"I am a stranger here," replied the girl. "I came to seek my father. I located his office and explained to a man in charge. I told him who I was and about the papers I had to identify me. He said that Mr. Robert Farr, that is my father, was absent. I am almost sure that he followed me.

Brody was puzzled, for the girl's statements were unusual and strange. But he read the truth in those innocent affrighted eyes. Both sympathy and interest were aroused. Just then Eunice came to where they stood.

"What is it, brother?" she inquired and Brody repeating the explanation the girl had given, warm-hearted Eunice caught her arm and led the way to the house.

"Poor dear!" she murmured, "you must come in out of the storm." The girl was faint and drooping, but she revived magically as these good Samaritans placed her before the cheerful fire and Eunice brought her a steaming cup of tea.

"I am Myrtle Farr," she told them. "I have lived with an old aunt, an invalid, in New Mexico since my mother died when I was an infant. My father was away in Alaska at the time and never returned to see me. Through all these years he has trusted me to Aunt Celia, sending each year enough money to provide for both of us until lately. When she was dying she told me to go to him. Her only clue as to his whereabouts was that she had heard that he owned considerable property in this city."

"And you found him?"

"No, I only located an office bearing his name on the door. Those I inquired of said he had been here for only a few weeks."

"You must remain with us until my brother looks into this matter," declared Eunice and after Myrtle Farr was comfortably installed in a spare room they discussed the singular event that had brought this stranger to their threshold.

"I have seen Robert Farr at his office," reported Brody to Myrtle two days later. "I told him of your claim. He absolutely denies having a daughter or of ever hearing of you before."

Myrtle Farr was fairly crushed at this declaration. She was insistent on seeing the man who disowned her and asked Brody to accompany her to the office he had just left.

"That is Robert Farr," spoke Brody as they nearly reached the building he had just before visited and he pointed out a man entering it.

There came into the eyes of his companion a glow of sudden revelation. "That the Robert Farr," she whispered, strangely agitated, "who says I am not his daughter? Oh, Mr. Brody! there is some mystery here, for that man is not my father. Aunt Celia had a picture of him he sent her two years ago, and this man does not in any way resemble him. I had it among my papers."

There was more than mystery. There was plotting and wickedness, as Wilson Brody ascertained after a week's time devoted to unraveling the identity of the pretended Robert Farr. Through diligent application to the case and detective co-operation, he learned that the impostor and fellow conspirators had kidnaped the real Robert Farr, who lived in another place, and the principal schemer had come to the city intent on assuming his identity and claiming and selling his property.

A month later the plotter and his conferes were in jail, and the real Robert Farr, rescued from forced imprisonment, was a guest at the Brody home, glad and proud of the daughter he had never seen before.

And there they both remained, the father as a welcome member of the household, and fair Myrtle as the wife of Wilson Brody.

Dear Dolly—Please tell me if a renter has to give a part of the fruit that is on the place he rents. I pay nine dollars rent for a house and small garden. There is one peach tree and one apple tree and a grape harbor. The lady I rent from says she will have to have half the fruit. People tell me the fruit goes with the house and garden.
A. RENTER.

The fruit belongs to you unless you made an agreement with the owner of the house when you rented the place to give her half of it.

Dear Dolly—Is it wrong for a girl to go with a boy to shows at night.
OPAL.

If a girl is old enough to go out with boys, I see no reason why she should not attend a show with him once in a while.

Dear Dolly—I am in need of a layette for a baby, if some of your readers have a set, I would pay a reasonable price for a good set. Give my phone number to any one for this purpose. They can call me Monday.
TIMES READER.

Did you know that you can purchase a complete layette in the infants department of our local dry goods stores? However I will give your phone number to any one who asks for it.

Dear Dolly Wise—I am a school girl 15 years old, and would like to work out this summer. I find I am too young to get a permit so if you know of some nice family where I could go every day and wash their dishes, help take care of their children and sweep and dust for them, I surely wish you would let me know. I like to do house work and would be very glad to earn some extra money. SCHOOL GIRL.

(I have this girl's name and address, also the address of two other young girls who would like to care for children during vacation.

Camp Taylor, Ky.

Dear Dolly—I am a lonesome soldier boy and would like to correspond with some nice Portsmouth girls. You printed a letter for me some time ago and I lost the address of the girls who wrote me. I am an old Portsmouth boy having worked at the steel plant before entering the army. I also worked at the Selby factory. I have light hair, brown eyes, weight 145 pounds and am 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Dear Dolly—I have an old United States penny dated 1796. Can you tell me the value of it. A READER.

A penny coined in 1796 with a Filler Head is only worth 5 cents. I should think it would be worth more to you as a souvenir.

Camp Sherman May Have College

CAMP SHERMAN, June 19—Camp Sherman may have a college next fall, if Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis approves of the plan and the personnel of the camp permits its execution. It is the idea of officials of the educational department to group all soldiers taking educational courses together, excuse them from the necessary guard and fatigue, give them two hours drill and military instruction and let them have the rest of their working time for studying, and recitation.

A four months course is contemplated under the plan. There must be at least 1500 men in the camp to make it feasible and with this number only 200 soldiers can be admitted to the school. Of course with a correspondingly larger number of students will be permitted. At present there are only 1300 men in camp.

Dogs Untagged; Owners Fined

Pleading guilty to charges of violating the dog law by failing to buy tags for their canines, W. L. Patton and H. B. Compton, Franklin Furnace farmers were taxed the costs by Judge Small in Municipal court Friday.

The complaints were filed by Etta Canter, official dog catcher.

X-RAY SHOWS COLLARBONE BROKEN

John Eckhart, who recently fell in his home on Grandview avenue, and was badly hurt, had an x-ray picture of his right collar bone taken Friday and it showed that it was broken in the fall. His injuries are not keeping him away from his work in the offices of the Whitaker-Glessner Company.

THE MOVIES

Harry Carey, The Ace of Western Actors is at The Exhibit Theatre Tonight in a New Big Thrilling Western Picture, "Bullet Proof," a Romance of the Great Northwest.
Also Century Animal Comedy

The virile romance of the west and the vigorous tales of the outdoors will never grow stale so long as Harry Carey remains to depict them on the screen. This bright star of the Universal films has just finished another of his smashing western stories, entitled "Bullet Proof", which will have its showing at the Exhibit tonight.

Mr. Carey is a screen favorite whose popularity grows with every new production.

The opening scenes of "Bullet Proof" show him studying for a career as missionary among the lawless folk of the frozen north and perfecting his body as well as his spiritual self. When the call comes to avenge his father's death it finds him a man of vigor and strength, able to more than hold his own under all conditions.

How Pierre leaves the monastery and starts on a trail of vengeance, how he is overcome by an avalanche and rescued by a gang of bandits, how he allies himself with this band that he may better trade the criminal and law he finally achieves his object and in so doing finds the path to happiness and love, form the theme of this Mral Carey screen production.

Kathleen O'Connor, beautiful and daring star of "The Lion Man," supports Carey in this picture. Don't forget, "Bullet Proof" is positively Harry Carey's newest production and has never before been shown in Portsmouth. "Salomy Lions", a screamingly funny Century comedy, featuring the Century Lions will be the added attraction tonight.

The Eastland Theatre Is Pleased to Present For Its Attraction Tonight Matinee and Night, "Common Sense," a Thrilling, Soul-Stirring Romance of the Maine North-Woods Featuring Vola Vale and Ralph Lewis.

"Common Sense," a Republic picture featuring Vola Vale and Ralph Lewis, is booked to appear at the Eastland tonight. The picture promises to be one of absorbing interest and is unusual in many respects.

The story is a romance, a light wood girl, played against a background of tragedy. A hermit, who, because of an unfortunate incident that occurred in his early life, has only bitterness in his heart for his fellow men, meets a fresh young girl, who, by the simple application of common sense, brings him to a healthier frame of mind and much happiness. The tragedy in one that affects both of them vitally and contributes an element of suspense and foreboding.

Most of the scenes were taken in the North Woods and are remarkably beautiful. Teddy Wack, the famous script dog with the broken leg, has a very important role. His intelligent and amusing tricks will appeal to all children and dog lovers.

Boys Ransack Crawford Home; Are Arrested

Returning home at 10:30 last night, Misses Vere and Margaret Crawford, of Hutchins and Nineteenth streets, inserted the key in the rear door, and were greeted with a disturbance that sounded like a game in tin pan alley as two boys, Louis Gibbs, 14, son of C. D. Gibbs, 2321 Grant street and Miles Yaple, 15, son of Albert S. Yaple of 1921 Eighteenth street overturned furniture and made a scramble for the nearest exits from the Crawford home.

Former Sheriff E. W. Smith and Seymour Bein, neighbors, hearing the commotion rushed in and found Vere Crawford struggling with the Gibbs boy who had a 32 Smith and Wesson revolver in his hand while another noise from the upstairs indicated that the Yaple boy had jumped through a screen onto the sleeping porch and slid to the ground making good his escape for the time being.

Furniture was upturned, drawers ransacked and everything displaced, it was found.

The Gibbs boy, bewailing his arrest and pleading to be let go, stoutly refused to disclose who his partner was and it was not until Sheriff E. E. Rickey and Deputy Sheriff Elza Canter were called and took the boy to the county jail that he would tell the name of the other boy.

Sheriff Rickey and Deputy Canter went to the Yaple home at midnight where Miles Yaple confessed to his part in the robbery and turned over to Sheriff Rickey a strand of pearl beads, a valuable tie pin, silver cup and several trinkets of value. Both boys are being detained in the county jail and will have a hearing before Judge Gilliland.

Miss Crawford stated that a diamond pin valued at $100 was still missing, and a search for the pin was futile and it is thought that it might have been lost in the yard or about the house after being taken by the boys.

Louis Gibbs, when searched had a bunch of keys, the name on one of the keys denoting that they were the ones which were recently lost by Charles Spencer of Franklin avenue, and a large pocket knife. Both boys said they entered the Crawford home through a window above the rear porch.

"TODAY, I'M WELL"

Says Jackson Lady, And Thanks Cardui For Her Good Health.

Jackson, Ohio—Mrs. Alice Scurlock, of this place, writes: "About three or four years I was in a very weak state. I suffered with my sides. They were sore and it seemed when I would lay down at nights something seemed like it twisted and pulled in my sides.

I could not rest nights, I was so very nervous. At . . . time I was worse than others, the pain was much more severe. I had sick headaches. My limbs would get numb and this was disagreeable. . . .

I doctored myself and tried different doctors . . . I was very frightened of operations and felt I could not go through one. I had gotten down so nervous. I read of Cardui and decided to use it. I took 11 or 12 bottles. Today I'm well and do not have any nervous trouble. I am able to do my own work and feel so strong and well. My sides are all right, and I know Cardui did it. I certainly am stronger than in a long time."

If you suffer from any of the troubles so common to women, try Cardui. Thousands of women give Cardui credit for their good health. NCB-10

Bootleggers Are Fined

Tony Poopock and Andy Seich and his wife, Mary Seich, three of the five foreigners arrested by New Boston officers in raids staged in the village Thursday night when two stills and a large quantity of material for the making of illicit liquor together with several gallons of the finished product were seized, pleaded guilty to charges of bootlegging when arraigned in New Boston police court Friday night.

Mayor Davis fined each of the defendants $200 and costs which was paid and the prisoners were released from custody.

Dan Boyen and Mike Champion at whose homes illicit liquor was also found by the raiders will be called up on to face similar charges in the mayor's court, it was stated this morning by Marshal Pete Hall.

It is probable the Federal officers will be notified and the five defendants may be prosecuted in the United States courts for alleged violations of the Volstead act.

WOMEN NEED NOT STAND IT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Surely Removes Suffering and Pain. Here is Proof.

St. Paul, Neb.—"I suffered with periodical pain for about four years so that I was unable to do my work at times. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it. It soon stopped all my suffering so that I am now feeling fine in every way. I recommend your medicine to my friends who have similar troubles. You may publish this letter for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. WILL THOMAS, St. Paul, Neb.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For forty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who now are free from suffering by its use.

Tax Time Is Extended

Dodds announced Saturday, and at which time the books will positively be closed, the official stated, in connection with a warning urging all persons owing taxes to take advantage of the extended time to pay up and by so doing avoid the payment of penalties provided by law.

The time limit for the payment of cigarette taxes, expired today, and many dealers secured their licenses during the day to escape heavy penalties provided under a new law which becomes effective Monday.

The Markets

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 19—Higher prices prevailed at the opening of today's stock market, further covering of short contracts on prospective good imports giving impetus to the advance which embraced every important division of the list except rails. The independent steels, notably Crucible and Vanadium, also oils, motors and equipments, leathers and chemicals averaged gains of 1 to 1 1-2 points. Chicago Pneumatic Tool was the strongest feature, rising 2 1-2 points.

Stock pursued their customary week end course, a firm opening giving way to irregularity. Rails hardened after early dullness but steels, equipments and affiliated issues lacked definite tendencies. Chemical and food specialties were higher on buying of industrial alcohol and corn products and low priced oils and motors improved with coppers. The closing was easy. Sales approximated 225,000 shares. A reaction in Anglo-French fs which fell almost 1 point under the week's high quotation, was the only feature of the bond market.

Seeks Divorce and Alimony

A divorce and alimony is sought in a suit filed by Corn Barnes in Common Pleas court Saturday against J. F. Barnes, whom she married March 3, 1910.

Through Attorneys Miller and Scarl the plaintiff charges neglect and infidelity and names one Mrs. Lizzie Staten as corespondent. She alleges that Barnes has failed to support her and four children and declares that he and the Staten woman left this vicinity together in September 1919, and that neither have returned.

Answer Is General Denial

The answer of the defendant filed in Common Pleas court Saturday through Attorneys Miller and Scarlett the suit of Thomas and Lucy Pyles against Earl Dodge, for $3,000 damages for alleged breach of contract in connection with the sale of real estate amounts to a general denial.

The plaintiff claims that Dodge signed a contract to purchase their property at Long Run, Jefferson township, on March 27, 1920, and then refused to go through with the deal.

Continued For Further Evidence

The divorce and alimony suit of La Verne Morton against Richard Morton was partially heard by Judge Stephenson in Common Pleas court Friday and then continued for further evidence in support of the plaintiff's petition.

McAdoo Not After The Nomination

enlightened principles and liberal policies of democracy. These are more than ever essential to the security and well being of the American people."

Mr. Shouse's telegram to which Mr. McAdoo replied, said:

"Sentiment throughout the country rapidly crystallizing in favor your nomination. I know you have consistently stated that you are not a candidate and that you will not seek nomination. Your many friends would like to have you reconsider your attitude at least to extent of permitting your name to be presented to convention. We are certain you can be nominated and elected."

WASHINGTON, June 19—The refusal of William G. McAdoo to allow his name to be presented to the Democratic national convention apparently did not come as a very great surprise in inner administration circles. To other Democratic leaders in Washington, however, it seemed to be wholly unexpected, and to his friends it came as a keen disappointment.

Some party leaders said Mr. McAdoo's self-elemination left the situation more or less "in the air". They had regarded the former secretary of the treasury as one of the foremost candidates for the nomination. While Mr. McAdoo had insisted from the first that he was not a candidate and that the delegates should go to San Francisco uninstructed, it is known that a number of them were favorable to his candidacy.

Boom Had Crown

In fact, the McAdoo boom had reached such proportions that the senate committee which investigated the pre convention campaign expenditures made repeated efforts to locate a national organization behind it. B. M. Baruch, of New York, and a number of others were questioned, but they insisted that there was no organization and that no fund in behalf of Mr. McAdoo had been spent.

Coincident with Mr. McAdoo's announcement that he would not permit his name to go before the convention, Jouett Shouse, assistant secretary of the treasury, issued a statement saying that an "active fight" would be waged for the nomination of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who has been looked upon as the certain choice to head the resolution committee at San Francisco.

Glass Boom On

The Virginia delegation has been instructed to vote for Mr. Glass at San Francisco.

The elimination of Mr. McAdoo narrows the field to eleven contestants so far as is known now.

Attorney General Palmer will enter the balloting with the Pennsylvania delegation instructed for him and probably with at least a part of the delegation from Georgia in which state he received a plurality of the primary vote.

Delegates from Ohio and Kentucky have been instructed for Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, while those from New Jersey have been instructed for Governor Edward I. Edwards of that state. Other instructed delegations are: Nebraska for Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of that state; Iowa for Secretary Meredith, of the agriculture department; Oklahoma for Senator Robert L. Owen, of that state; South Dakota for James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; North Carolina for Senator F. M. Simmons and Oregon for McAdoo.

Davis Mentioned

John W. Davis, of West Virginia, ambassador to Great Britain and Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, chairman of the Democratic national committee, whose names also are expected to be presented to the convention, have no delegations instructed for them and with the exception of the states named, the delegations are uninstructed.

Church Will Hold Picnic

The Union Church of Gephart's Station will hold a Sunday School picnic on Monday July 5th in Miller's Grove near the church. An interesting program is being arranged, including a number of good speeches. Everybody is cordially invited to enjoy the picnic.

Lucky Find of Manuscript.

In 1595 the overseers of the parish of West Pennard, Somerset, England, needing a new cover for their rate book, chose sheets of parchment. The cover has lasted until now, and it has just been discovered that the parchment is more precious than the whole of the rate the little parish has been paying. The rate book is bound in what proves to be part of a fine written volume dating back eight hundred or nine hundred years. It belonged to the library of Glastonbury abbey, and the despised covering is priceless, as forming an important part of a work relating to times of which no other manuscript exists.

Oil on Troubled Waters.

Poets and philosophers of all ages have sung of oil and its soothing qualities. "Why," asked Plutarch, "does pouring oil on the sea make it clear and calm? Is it for that the winds slipping the smooth oil have no force nor cause any waves?" It is told in the Ecclesiastical history that the Bishop Adain gave holy oil to travelers, saying: "But do you remember to cast this oil I give you into the sea, and the wind shall cease immediately." Pliny the elder proclaimed that "everything is soothed by oil." Our own Ben Franklin wrote much on the phenomenon of oil on the troubled waters. It has crown to be an accepted belief in every walk of life that where there is oil to be poured forth there is peace.

Origin of Attar of Roses.

Tradition says that the secret of attar of roses originated through a certain sultana ordering a fountain in her garden to be kept supplied with rose-water. The action of the sun presently concentrated the oily particles which rose to the surface, and the gardener, supposing the water to have become corrupt, skimmed off the floating oil. In this operation some of the globules burst, releasing a delightful fragrance.

It required but one hour and six minutes for the Irving Drew team to triumph by the score of 3 to 1 over the Arch Preservers at the Seventeenth street yard last evening. The game was a pitcher's duel between Frank Geiger of the Drews and his sterling opponent, Ed Mowery, of the Selbys. The latter allowed but three hits during the entire evening, but one of the singles was followed by a walk and this by an error, the combination being enough to put the game on ice for the Drews. On the other hand it required the assistance of an error to give the Selbys their lone run, "Red Snapper" Thompson dropping a perfect toss as Mr. Kearns, who was the hitting demon of the evening, slid across the rubber.

The game was a well played and highly scientific exhibition and was thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd. Both pitchers were at the top of their form and it was the team that finally got the breaks that won. Geiger twirled practically perfect ball. He seemed to have a world of stuff last evening, curving the ball across the corners and keeping it out of the groove. It made no difference to him who was at the bat, for he mowed the clubbers down with consistent regularity, with the exception of Right Fielder Kearns, who helped himself to a couple of safeties and walked on the last occasion, giving him a perfect day with the willow. Geiger fanned four men and walked but one, which showed that he did his work well and capably. Mowery was not hard to hit, but he was there putting the ball across and depending upon his support. That his confidence in his backers was not misplaced, was shown by the fact that he allowed but three hits and fanned but one man. He made the fatal mistake of walking Lewis in the sixth inning immediately after Doherty had driven a clean single to left. Up until this time but two men had reached the initial sack and in the first three innings Mowery had retired the Drews in order.

The fans were glad to note that Jack Hartlage was back in the line-up for the Drews. Jack had decided to quit the game because his eyesight is failing. He is a million ways from losing his sight, but he had concluded he had given a good many years to the game and would graciously step aside for some one younger than he. The lure of the game, however, was too much for one of his blood and he was back last evening and played a great game in right field, besides doing some effective coaching at third base. It was due to his chatter at third that resulted in the Drews winning the game. Doherty had led off in the fifth with a single. Hartlage saw that Mowery was faltering and yelled for Lewis to wait it out. The kid batter followed instructions and secured a walk. This was the break in the game. Cooper laid down a perfect sacrifice, but Monk in his eagerness to get the ball to first ahead of the batter, threw high and Doherty scored and Lewis and Cooper moved up a base. Thompson shot a hard roller toward second, but Hock, who fielded the ball perfectly, had no chance to retire Lewis at the plate and was content to toss Thompson out at first. Geiger slammed one right at Hock, but the throw reached the plate too late to catch Cooper, who slid home to safety. A perfect toss would have nailed the runner but the throw was high. The next two batters were easy.

The Selbys made their only score in the fourth. Monk, first up, sent a long fly to left which Floyd Smith smothered. Kearns, however, got hold of one for a line single to middle, which was handled quickly. Spence shot one to right for a double. On Collis' rap to short, Kearns scored, due, primarily to Thompson dropping the throw home. Spence attempted to sneak home when Collis was trapped between first and second, but this time Thompson held onto the ball and the first sacker was declared out. Bihlman sided to third.

When Floyd Smith stepped to the bat the first time, the game was halted and on behalf of W. W. Bauer, real estate dealer, Umpire "Buck" Yeager, made a neat little presentation address and handed Mr. Smith a crisp $5.00 bill, a reward for his home run drive of June 11. Mr. Smith tried to duplicate the drive, but unfortunately for him, Bihlman was playing up on the N. & W. right of way and managed to get under his terrific swat. Smith, however, did make a home run drive in the sixth, but was sent back to third. His drive went among the fleet of automobiles in right field and while the slugger crossed the plate before the ball could be fielded, he was waved back to third out of respect to the ground rules. But it was some hit at that. The score:

SOME WILD AND WOOLY WESTERN TYPES WILL BE SEEN AT THE 'FRISCO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION SHOW

Two Games At Millbrook Sunday

The bargain attraction offered for Sunday afternoon when a double header will be staged, will, beyond a doubt, draw a great throng of fans and establish the high water mark attendance for this season. The first game, which will be called at 1:15 new time, will be between the famous colored team, the Buckeyes, of Portsmouth, and the colored Bevos of Ironton. This game will no doubt be the scream of the season. Not that the two clubs are not capable of playing the game right up to the handle, but because colored teams have a humorous way all their own. When they get to chattering on the side lines, the fun is fast and furious and when they pull off some startling play, there is a twitch or a look or a goop that simply sets the fans dippy. There are some great humorists among the Portsmouth players and they are sure to add a lot of mirth along the way.

The aftermath, which will be started at 3 o'clock, fast time, will be staged by the Wiedemanns of Cincinnati and Gale's all stars and will be a struggle well worth witnessing. The fans here are well acquainted with the class of the Wiedemanns. Manager Applegate stands nice high with the people of Portsmouth and his club is always assured of a great reception at Millbrook Park. The Wiedemanns late the edge on the locals this season, having won the only game played this year. The All Stars are anxious to get a crack at the Brewers and expect to even up the score. Despite the fact that two games will be played, the regular schedule of prices will prevail. Umpires Yeager and Spencer will be the arbitrators.

ELKS ALL SET FOR IRONTON TRIP

If confidence in one's self assures success, then the local Elk team is sure of a victory over the Ironton Elks in Deechwood Park in Ironton, Sunday afternoon.

Memories of the old Ohio State League days and the brand of baseball that Ironton is noted for, makes the local boys feel sure that they can give the up-river aggregation a good trimming. The slogan is "Let's Get Ironton," and many friends and boosters of the team are planning to make the trip Sunday and are looking forward to a good time all around, provided Ironton comes across with the "Slunch."

All Elks that are slated for the team are requested to meet at the local club rooms Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock, Central (old time) time, or 10:00 o'clock city time, (new time) and go up in a body to receive "that lunch", and then the rail feed in the evening, which they have promised. All players are to have uniforms and are to carry their traveling cards. Let's go.

You tell 'em, Jack about 'raisin'" it.

Rick's Team Is Blanked

Cincinnati gained a few points on St. Louis yesterday as while the Moran Men were idle in Beantown the Phils blanked the Cardinals 1 to 0.

On Thursday the Cards blanked the Phills, 1 to 0. In the two games the Phills have only acquired six hits, which shows the gilt edge pitching Rickey's team is getting.

You tell 'em Artie I'll choke.

Sox Have Shot Bolt

It begins to look like the White Sox are out of it this season. The team is hitting well but the pitching has been wretched. Cicotte, shorn of his shine ball is about as effective as Hod Eller or resin-less Slim Sallee. The Yanks have just beaten the Sox three in a row.

You tell 'em figs I'm dated.

Cleveland Is Going Some

The Cleveland Indians are playing consistent ball in the American league. They are still in front and it really begins to look like the team that will beat them out will win the pennant in the American league.

Speaker is not only a great ball player but is developing into a real manager.

You tell 'em core I'm on the 'Rhine.'

Cullop Has Quit Game

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, June 19.—Norman A. Cullop, former New York American pitcher, who joined the Salt Lake Club of the Pacific Coast League this season, has retired from baseball and left today for his home in Virginia.

Red Game Postponed

The Reds were idle again Friday, rain preventing a game in Boston. The team has been hoodooed on weather this season, losing thousands of dollars as a result of J. P. being on the job.

Japanese Launchings Are "Dry."

The Japanese observances attending the launching of a ship, as described by a writer, are begun with a religious ceremony. Then the ship is released in the usual way, but instead of cracking a bottle of champagne across her stem, great quantities of cut flowers, usually chrysanthemums, and the sponsor's bouquet and a number of live pigeons are scattered from a decorated globe suspended over the launching platform, the sponsor pulling a cord. The flowers fall about the launching party as the freed birds circle overhead.

"Miracle Men" vs. "Cubs" At Coney Island Sunday

The Miracle Men will play at Coney Island Sunday, June 20th. At Jackson, Sunday June 27th. At Ripley, July 4th and 5th. They are also booked for Waverly and Maysville in July.

The following players are asked to report at The Quick Repair Shoe Shop Saturday night, Stillwell, Chase, Dunkam, Goode, Fortner, Wells, Smith, Banfield, Bartlett and Hartlage. The Miracle Men will meet the Portsmouth Cubs at Coney Island tomorrow afternoon. The ferry boat will leave the foot of Chillicothe street at 1 and 2 o'clock p. m. Central Standard time.

The Miracle Men compose a great club and the Cubs will have their hands full to hold them. Townsend and James will form the battery for the Cubs and will be expected to be mighty obstacles in the path of victory. An admission of 25 cents will be charged at the gate. No doubt a great crowd will witness the struggle.

GOLF PHYSICAL RECREATION, IS PERMISSIBLE, SAYS HUNTINGTON MAYOR

The Huntington Herald Dispatch Saturday said:

"Golfing is a sport and physical recreation, and so far as I am concerned may be played in Huntington, at any time. Furthermore, all of the links available to Huntington people are outside of the city limits, without our jurisdiction."

With this statement yesterday morning Mayor C. W. Campbell set at rest a rumor that he intended to stop golf playing at the Country Club on Sunday.

"There are but two links, one at the Huntington Country Club, in Wayne county, and the other, yet to be completed, at the Guyan Club, on the Fox Ridge Road. So, even if it were the intention to prohibit golf playing on Sunday, which is not the case, the city would have no part in enforcing the statute, since the links are not inside the corporate limits," concluded Mr. Campbell.

Portsmouth Hat Co.	5	0	1.000

In the first extra inning game played in the Manufacturer's or Wholesaler's Leagues the Portsmouth Hat Co. Friday night kept up their fighting spirit and in eight innings won from Hibbs Hardware by the score of 8 to 7. The score was tied in the seventh and went the one extra inning when the Hat men shoved another run across the rubber.

The games was played fast and was close and exciting all the way through. Hibbs started off like a house afire and scored three in the first, the Hat boys not counting until the second when they managed to get two runs in. The score then stood 3 to 2 until the sixth when Hibbs in the first half of that frame scored 2 making the score 5 to 2. This somewhat disheartened the Hat men but as they had two more innings to go they put it down right there that the remainder of the game would be a real battle. In the last half of the sixth the Hat boys staged a rally with Plummer starting it by getting on with a hit. He advanced to third on outs by Haas and Howland and came home on Evans roller which was muffed. Doerr got on with a hit and Reinhard walked filling the bases. Jackson then grooved one for Schusky who gave the ball a ride along the third base line for a complete circuit clearing the bags and bringing the total up to 5 which made the score 7 to 5. Hibbs came back in the first part of the 7th and tied it with a hit and a bad peg to third to catch a man stealing. In the eighth after Hibbs had failed to score the Hat men filled the bases with a hit, an error and a base on balls. Jackson then lost his own game by pitching four wide ones to Smith, forcing Evans with the winning tally.

Dilly Catching Great Ball

Have you been noticing the brand of ball Dilhoefer is putting up for the Cardinals? He is hitting and throwing in old time form and of course is there with the old pepper. Rickey recently remarked in a fanning bee that Dilly was one of the best young catchers in the National league.

You tell 'em hatchet, I saw 'em.

South Webster At McDermott

Sunday afternoon the McDermott team will play on their home grounds and will have as their opponents the team representing South Webster. The game will be called to play at 1:30 sharp. Ballanger will be on the mound for McDermott after a several week's rest. The following players will appear in the McDermott lineup, Ballanger, Hazelbaker, McCormick, Koch, Cook, Brannam, Elliott, Jeanguenat, Spirely and Kilgore.

You tell 'em ginger, it's a snap.

MORAN MAY SIGN COLLEGE PITCHERS

BOSTON, June 19—Manager Moran today had a visit from John Henry, the former Washington and Boston catcher, who is now coaching the Cornell College team. Henry recommended two college pitchers who he thinks are good for the big show. One of them is from Amherst and the other from his own team at Cornell. The Red leader did not even ask their names, but directed Henry to have them both report to him at Philadelphia on Monday and John promised that he would have them there. One of the youngsters is a right-hander and the other is a southpaw. Manager Moran also heard that the Cincinnati club has offered a large sum for Pitcher Morrison of the Birmingham team, but that it has been refused.

Herzog Not With Cublets

After hanging around the Cubs' hotel for a week in Chicago, waiting for Manager Mitchell to relent, Charley Herzog has departed for his home in Maryland. No doubt Buck thinks things have come to a pretty mess when the manager of a ball team insists on a player delivering the goods.

THE FAITH OF HIS FOLLOWERS

SAMUEL GOMPERS is less popular in the papers than he is among the people to whose cause he has devoted the greater part of his life.

Stories have come out of Montreal that the Labor Federation had grown irked and rebellious under his domination of near four decades and powerful opposition was growing up to his re-election. Only yesterday there came one with much circumstantiality of detail, saying dominant elements had combined against him, he had the struggle of his career before him and his probable overthrow was stated next to a foregone conclusion. Scarce had the wires grown cold when they took up a second story that he had been re-elected president of the Federation by a unanimous vote amidst the most exuberant enthusiasm a convention of the sort had ever shown.

So doth fact belie fancy, so doth the choice of some chagrin the wish of others. It is well, in this instance, that it is thus. For say what may be said of him otherwise, there can be no gainsaying the fact that Samuel Gompers is a big man and bigness makes him a conservative man. In war times he gave fervid support to the government and his steadying hand held labor fast to the immense strain placed upon it. No man proclaimed America first in louder or truer terms than he and his voice was heard and heeded on two continents.

One does not have to agree with him, or even in anything except his Americanism, to know this appreciatively. A small man, a blatant demagog, a man neither honest, nor sincere, could not stand chief among hundreds of his fellow kind for a period that runs longer by far than the average human life.

Certainly, Gompers may fall into error and run to extreme here and there, but in the main he must be gifted above the ordinary, he must be loyal and honest, he must desire substantial justice and right, else he would long ago have gone to fall.

JUST CERTAINTY AND NOT EXTREME

ANOTHER automobile was stolen hereabouts this week.

In a discussion where the frequency of such thefts was up for discussion one of the participants therein advanced the opinion that the only way to stop them was the imposition of the death penalty.

This met with little concurrence and rightly so. The crime is serious as to the amount always involved and has become considerable of a plague, but an extreme penalty is not demanded. Of a truth the slaying of one would tend entirely to defeat the very end it seeks to bring about.

A penalty should always be in reasonable proportion to the crime it would punish. In prevention the extent plays the smaller part; it is the certainty thereof that is most effective. Energy and wit of officials, with the automobile public lending hearty support, should be concentrated on conviction. With the prompt exercise of these successful pursuit of automobile thieves ought not to be a matter of particular difficulty, as for one thing the telephone will lend ready service.

In this connection the suggestion is made that every dealer in second hand automobiles should be required to make daily reports of purchases made by him, with accurate description of the name, numbers and other characteristics of the car. This would seem to be particularly efficacious as auto thefts are made in most instances by thieves, who know just where they can immediately dispose of them.

Prohibition Chief Kramer says Philadelphia is the wettest city in the union. Now that shows what an excellent thing virtue is. Philadelphia merely professes it, yet she gets away with more raw rottenness than any place on the map. Think of what a shining reputation she would have if she were only to back up profession with half practice.

It is shocking even to mention it, but in the interest of fair play we stick a pin in the fact that up at Des Moines, a thousand miles above Mason and Dixon's line, thousands stormed the city jail, took out three Negroes and hung them.

Easiest thing in the world to say the other side is going wrong, but, the evidence multiplies, the hardest thing in the world to say which is the right way.

Weather man has hit it again. Announced Wednesday it would be cooler next day. As a matter of fact Thursday was cold, or if it were not it made people shrug and shiver to about the same effect.

Some of those Missourians are becoming the victims of a quickened conscience and are returning the Lowden money they received.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

by PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

JACK SAVES THE DAY

We did that, in fear and trembling, at first, but, bless your heart, Jack is a true sport through and through. Listen to the tale of woe.

Mrs. Pimonda had led the weeping Laura to Jack's private office after leaving us in the studio, and told Jack everything.

It seems that she and Laura had planned to give dear Morgan a little surprise (which, by the way, is something that the wires of artists should never do) and call for him in the car and take him for a spin in the country. Being a fiancee, now, Laura could do so, and they had arrived post-haste only to find the false one in the midst of painting Jack's fiancee—and unchaperoned! It had been too much for them to bear, alone, hence the visit to Jack's office.

I must say that my future husband rose to the occasion manfully. As they were reciting their woes an inspiration came to him, and when they had finished he leaned back in his chair and laughed and laughed till the tears rolled from his eyes.

"Good gracious, Laura—and you, mother—what an old wives' tale you come to me with," Jack told them. "Don't you know that Morgan Travers is a good friend of mine—a very good friend in fact—and furthermore it is at my request that he is at this moment painting Lindsey's portrait. I want it for her boudoir in the new bungalow, and so does she. It was I who suggested the whole thing and took her to the studio myself."

"That's funny," answered my shrewd mother-in-law quickly. "Lindsey never mentioned your name, and she said most distinctly that Jean had taken her to Mr. Travers' studio. Are you sure of all this, my son?"

"Never more sure of anything in my life, mater," he answered. Then being a quick sort of a guy, and realizing that I must have said that I had gone to Morgan's place with Jean he took his cue from same. I call that classically clever.

"As for little Jean, we met her at luncheon today and she told us that she was going to be married next week, so we celebrated together, and then I suggested that she and I bring Lindsey to Morgan's studio. I left them there, and between you and me, mother, Lindsey could not be in any better hands than those of your own daughter's fiance. I am really pained and surprised at you both for your uncharitable thoughts, etc."

You may imagine that at the end of this recital of Jack's, Morgan or no Morgan, I threw my arms around his beloved neck and hugged the life out of him with joy and love and gratitude. He seemed to take to it kindly and returned the compliment a hundred-fold.

Furthermore there were no reproaches when once we were alone, after spending a happy hour with Morgan. No, siree! Jack smiled when I started to explain the whys and wherefores, and said he wished that I would learn to understand that he was not my worst enemy, neither did he wish to make me feel that I owed him an explanation for every move I made, etc. That there was no harm in the world in my going to an old classmate's studio and posing for him if it helped him out, and that he knew enough about me to be able to trust me, anywhere. Yes, those were the very words, little book.

May I mention in passing that they brought the tears to my eyes? And instead of a miserable evening, that I had pictured, we spent a very happy one together, lost in each other's embraces, and in roseate-colored dreams of the future.

A real American from Oklahoma aspires to sit in the White House. The blood of an Indian family which produced a chief of the seven clans of the Cherokees is in the veins of Senator Robert Latham Owen, Democratic presidential possibility.

SEN. OWEN

Senator Owen, who has sat in the upper house of congress since 1907, is a great-great-great grandson of Quatsis, sister of Cauhmuma (the Raven), who was chief of the Cherokees early in the eighteenth century. Quatsis married a missionary, and from them Senator Owen is descended on his mother's side.

Senator Owen long has been aligned with what is the progressive thought of the Democratic party, and in the senate has been an expert on banking and finance. He managed the federal reserve and federal farm loan acts in the senate.

Robert Latham Owen was born at Lynchburg, Va., February 2, 1855. Attended Washington and Lee university. Was teacher at the Cherokee orphan asylum in 1879 and 1880, began practicing law in 1880, and from 1881 to 1884 was secretary of the board of education of the Cherokee nation. Was Indian agent for the Five Civilized Tribes from 1885 to 1889.

Senator Owen organized the First National Bank of Muskogee, and today is interested in real estate, banking and farming. He has been president of the National Popular Government League since its organization. Was elected to the senate in 1907, re-elected in 1912, and elected for the third time in 1918.

Deadly Durango Scorpion.

While the scorpion pest in the city of Durango and its immediate environs is serious enough, it is in the so-called "malo" or bad belt which borders the Sierra Madre range that the insects are so numerous as to make the region practically uninhabitable. They have even rid the region of all other animal life. It is only occasionally that some venturesome native enters the territory. In other parts of Mexico where scorpions are found in considerable numbers their stings are not of deadly effect, although painful. It is explained by scientists that the reason the Durango scorpions are the bearers of such a deadly poison is that they absorb into their system in some manner a peculiar quality of the mineralized soil of the territory that they inhabit.

BILLY WHISKERS

by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

In the firemen's bedroom, where Billy Jr. had chased the mean fireman, was an open hole with a greased pole coming up through the middle for the firemen to slide down when an alarm of fire was sent in. Billy was up the stairs and into the room almost as soon as the man himself, who in mad haste made a grab for the greased pole and down he went, leaving Billy rather doubtful as to what course to pursue; but quickly seeing the impossibility of a goat's trying to slide down either a greased or any other kind of a pole, he bounded down the stairs again. The firemen had to all appearances disappeared, but Billy sniffed the air suspiciously and glanced keenly first in one direction and then in another, he soon discovered his pet enemy seated on elevated position he wisely forebore attempting to reach and, instead, took up a position where no one could enter or leave the engine house without passing him, and then he calmly laid himself down and waited.

But the fates were against Billy Jr. and he was obliged to give up his position or get run over. Just as he got comfortably settled, the fire alarm rang out and each well trained horse rushed to his allotted place on engine, hose cart, or ladder wagon. As Billy saw the engine speed away with his enemy holding on behind and trying to get into his rubber coat, he said, "I have been cheated of my revenge today, but look out for tomorrow, you red-faced lubber," and with this parting threat he trotted off to find his friend, old One-Horn.

"Just as Billy was coming out of the engine house he came upon an old German couple leading a dainty little Nanny goat by a string. Now, it had been a long time since Billy had met a pretty Nanny and his heart fairly thumped with joy as he pranced up to make friends with her, but here is where he made a mistake. In his joy at seeing her pretty face he had forgotten that he must needs be introduced before approaching a strange Nanny, and this young thing proved to be unusually timid, so when she saw a big strange Billy goat running toward her as if he had known her since she was a baby kid, she promptly dodged behind her mistress. Billy, nothing daunted, followed after her. As his head appeared at one side of the old fat woman, Nanny's appeared at the other, and the faster she ran, the faster he followed. This they kept up until the poor woman was wound round and round by the cord, so that she could not move and, being equally as timid as her little charge, she at last fainted and fell forward on the walk, knocking Billy off of his feet and throwing Nanny down upon her knees. When Billy saw the mischief he had been the cause of, and also saw the old woman's husband coming after him with a thick club, he wisely disappeared round the first corner, pondering in his mind over the foolishness of young kids in general and of this one in particular.

The Twilight Woods

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer)

In the depths of the twilight woods
When the mountainous lands are green,
All the trees speak with whispered words
Unto Nature, the springtime queen.

It is there where the quiet lives
That the breath of the budding leaves
Gives our heartstrings the balm of peace,
In that place where the woodwind grieves.

Through the paths of prolific bloom
Where the crystalline streamlets sound,
Let us roam. There, men's wearied feet
Tread a vast unmolested ground.

From the midst of the twilight woods
Is our wandering vision led,
Where the angels with powder puffs
Brushed the far dusky mountain's head.

With a lore for each verdant tree,
And a prayer for the charms that were,
I must go—since my heart returns
To those woodlands of spruce and fir.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 19—If everything continues to drop like prices have in Manhattan recently some of our best tenors will find themselves the owners of deep bass voices. The old clothing placard "Take me home for $22.50" has been dusted off and hung out in front on the suit that was selling for $75 a few weeks ago.

And those sprightly young men of the Rialto who are connected with the best families—by telephone—find that they can drop in all their pre-war glamour for the Pull-Me-In shops near the Pennsylvania depot on Seventh avenue are disposing of nifty made over second hand clothes for $7 each. And so the young blades may have a suit for every day in the week.

It was rough picking for them when a hand-me-down second hand suit sell for $35 for it was their "front" that permitted them to pose as young swells around the hotel lobbies and cabarets cadging drinks and making small flying touches. Now they may strut and effect the English drawl with the same old abandon.

Several of the big cafes have set down prices slightly but hardly enough to notice. The best news come from the Bowery where beefsteak John has restored the 15 cent dinner—steak, potatoes, coffee and a vegetable. When the Kaiser went loco he had to charge 25 cents and it was a serious blow to the human driftwood that looked forward to at least one good meal a week at his sawdust carpeted culinary palace.

A new retail candy store just off Fifth Avenue opened with a bang several days ago and announced all before the war prices. It put quite a crimp in the Fifth Avenue shops that are charging $1.75 a pound for almost every kind of candy. Silk skirts in many of the best shops are marked down to $4.50 and the tailor made skirts are now being sold for $10 whereas they formerly sold as high as $32.50.

Most all of us will sympathize with Ed Wynn, the comedian, who complains that the laundries do not clean his collars anymore. "They sharpen them" he says.

Gradually all of the New York hotels are lifting the ban on dogs. It used to be that all of them permitted dogs if not in the rooms in kennels in the basement. Then an English concern came along and built an exclusive hotel and they literally retailed exclusiveness. One thing they refused to permit was a dog. Several other hotels followed the lead like sheep. But the newer hotels have scientific kennels and those who haven't kennels are permitting dogs of all kinds. But they are making a charge of $1 a day. And what is that to a man who loves his dog?

Some way or other the bobbed hair prejudice is disappearing. It is true that the big department stores will not employ girls who bob their hair and this in spite of the fact they employ floor walkers with bald heads and Van Dyke beards—but it seems bobbed hair has come to stay. Greenwich Village put a stigma on the fashion at first. At one of the last nights of grand opera a music critic counted ten women in private boxes who had bobbed hair. At the rarer, smart cafes and theatres they are frequently seen. Many of them are married women who have found it is the only way they can keep their hair and still others find it the most becoming way for them. One of the society journals tell of a matron past 60 who recently appeared at a social function with her silver hair bobbed. That is perhaps going too far.

"Yes. You don't know how lonesome it is going house nights and having nobody there to find fault with me."

Applying The Meaning

Stenographer—"I see they have a picture at the Majestic called 'Silk Husbands and Calico Wives.' I think the name very apropos."

Newspaper Editor—"All right. I'll apply it right now. I'll wager you have silk hose on at this moment; I am wearing cotton."

Stenog—"Oh, now, you're taking an unfair advantage."

"Bobby," said the teacher to a pupil in the juvenile class, "What is syntax?"

Marked Improvement

Little Beryl, aged ten, was a very pretty and intelligent girl, but she had one fault—she was inclined to be vain. At every available opportunity she gazed at herself complacently in the looking glass. Her fond papa noticed that the habit was growing upon her and took upon himself the duty of correcting it.

"Why do you always look in the glass?" he asked.

"I was just thinking how nice I looked," answered Beryl.

"You mustn't be so vain, child. Remember we are all as nature made us."

"Did nature make you, papa?"

"Yes."

"Then," said Beryl, looking at him and then at her reflection in the mirror, "don't you think nature is turning out better work than she used to?"

Very Human—These Monkeys!

"Sitting dejectedly outside the camp," says Capt. William Ashley Anderson in his thrilling story of patrolling the African game country, "I watched a troop of baboons with rising interest; though droll, they are dangerous if you arouse their ill will. So I did not laugh to offend the lumbering elders; for I found they are also bound by laws as are their brothers, the human beings—have their conventions and live up to them. The old men are rough and surly, cynical with their women folk and annoyed at the chattering of the children; the women are patient but shy, dragging the whimpering totoes about."

Test of Good Steel.

Good steel is not only hard but it has also an energy of its own. There are knives that will literally cut an iron nail, but nothing else, because they cannot be ground sufficiently fine as to let the blade pass through the material. The cutting ability of a pocket knife, a razor or a pair of shears is derived from the fineness of the edge. A fine edge can be produced only of steel that is full of life and springiness, because the blade must not cut only but must be able to select the most suitable spot for entering the material.

MCADOO REFUSES TO PERMIT HIS NAME TO GO BEFORE CONVENTION

DECISION IRREVOCABLE, MCADOO SAYS

NEW YORK, June 19—William G. McAdoo, who has been considered by party leaders as one of the principal candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination, announced last night he could not permit his name to go before the San Francisco convention. "This decision," he said, "is irrevocable as the path of duty seems to me clear and unmistakable."

His decision was made known in a telegram to Jouett Shouse, Democratic delegate-at-large from Kansas, who has telegraphed Mr. McAdoo that sentiment throughout the country was rapidly crystallizing in his favor; that his friends would like to have him permit his name to be presented to the convention, and that they were certain he could be nominated and elected.

Mr. McAdoo's telegram follows:

"Your telegram of June 17 requires an explicit and immediate answer. I am profoundly grateful to you and my other generous friends who, with such spontaneity and unselfishness, have, without my solicitation, advocated my nomination. To cause them disappointment distresses me deeply, but I am unable to alter the position I have consistently maintained, namely, that I would not seek the nomination for the Presidency. I cannot, therefore, permit my name to go before the convention. This decision is irrevocable, as the path of duty seems to me clear and unmistakenable.

His Private Affairs Compel It

"The considerations which compelled me to resign as secretary of the treasury and director-general of railroads, after the armistice in 1918, in large measure still prevail. I must have a reasonable opportunity to rehabilitate my private affairs and to make that provision for my family which, in time of peace, is at once the sacred duty and the cherished desire of every right-thinking man. Having been out of office less than 18 months, I have not yet been able to accomplish those objects. Moreover, a Presidential campaign imposes upon the candidate inevitable expenses which I am not able to assume, and which I do not expect my friends to assume.

Wants Liberal Platform

"The record of the recent Republican congress and the platform and candidates of the Republican national convention make Democratic victory in the next election almost certain. Victory will be certain if the Democrats adopt a straight-forward, aggressive, unevasive, honest and liberal platform and put forward candidates who will command public confidence. We must stand squarely for the creation of the League of Nations without obfuscating reservations, and we must be direct and explicit on the important domestic issues. The times call for propositions for equitable or generous to blind passions or cheap appeals of hate or for sensationalies and those who would shut their ears to the loud swelling notes of humanity, courses aloud for the restoration of love and good will at home and in the world, and for the opportunity to live in an atmosphere of Justice, progress and prosperity.

William Gibbs McAdoo

"I feel sure that my friends will appreciate the sincerity and propriety of my position, and that they will do everything in their power at San Francisco to assure the continuation of the enlightened principles and liberal policies of democracy. These are more than ever essential to the security and well being of the American people."

Mr. Shouse's telegram to which Mr. McAdoo replied, said:

"Sentiment throughout the country rapidly crystalizing in favor your nomination. I know you have consistently stated that you are not a candidate and that you will not seek nomination. Your many friends would like to have you reconsider your attitude at least to extent of permitting your name to be presented to convention. We are certain you can be nominated and elected."

WASHINGTON, June 19—The refusal of William G. McAdoo to allow his name to be presented to the Democratic national convention apparently did not come as a very great surprise in inner administration circles. To other Democratic leaders in Washington, however, it seemed to be wholly unexpected, and to his friends it came as a keen disappointment.

Some party leaders said Mr. McAdoo's self-elemination left the situation more or less "in flux". They had regarded the former secretary of the treasury as one of the foremost candidates for the nomination. While Mr. McAdoo had insisted from the first that he was not a candidate and that the delegates should go to San Francisco uninstructed, it is known that a number of them were favorable to his candidacy.

Boom Had Grown

In fact, the McAdoo boom had reached such proportions that the senate committee which investigated the pre-convention campaign expenditures made repeated efforts to locate a national organization behind it. B. M. Baruch, of New York, and a number of others were questioned, but they insisted that there was no organization and that no fund in behelf of Mr. McAdoo had been spent.

Coincident with Mr. McAdoo's announcement that he would not permit his name to go before the convention, Jouett Shouse, assistant secretary of the treasury, issued a statement saying that an "active fight" would be waged for the nomination of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who has been looked upon as the certain choice to head the resolution committee at San Francisco.

Glass Boom On

The Virginia delegation has been instructed to vote for Mr. Glass at San Francisco.

The elimination of Mr. McAdoo narrows the field to eleven contestants so far as is known now.

Attorney General Palmer will enter the balloting with the Pennsylvania delegation instructed for him and probably with at least a part of the delegation from Georgia in which state he received a plurality of the primary vote.

Delegates from Ohio and Kentucky have been instructed for Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, while those from New Jersey have been instructed for Governor Edward I. Edwards, of that state. Other instructed delegations are: Nebraska for Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of that state; Iowa for Secretary Meredith, of the agriculture department; Oklahoma for Senator Robert L. Owen, of that state, South Dakota for James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; North Carolina for Senator F. M. Simmons and Oregon for McAdoo.

Davis Mentioned

John W. Davis, of West Virginia, ambassador to Great Britain and Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, chairman of the Democratic national committee, whose names also are expected to be presented to the convention, have no delegations instructed for them and with the exception of the states named, the delegations are uninstructed.

BIG DEMONSTRATION IN DAYTON TODAY FOR GOVERNOR COX

DAYTON, O., June 19.—Before leaving for San Francisco tonight, where they expect to do everything possible to bring about the nomination of Governor James M. Cox as their standard bearer, Ohio's delegates to the Democratic national convention aided by party leaders and citizens of Dayton are to participate in a community demonstration for the governor this afternoon.

A feature of the demonstration will be a parade participated in by fellow townsmen of the governor, the delegates, and boosters from various parts of the state who expect to accompany the Ohio delegation to the Golden Gate. After parading through the business section, the well-wishers will go to Trail's End, the governor's suburban home, where a number of addresses will be made and to which the governor is expected to respond.

The governor will not attend the convention. His interests there will be in direct charge of National Committeeman E. H. Moore, of Youngstown, who already is on the ground. During the convention Governor Cox will spend part of his time at the executive offices in Columbus. While the balloting is going on he expects to be in his newspaper office here.

Among those who are expected to speak at the demonstration at the governor's home this afternoon are United States Senator Pomerene and former Governor James E. Campbell, members of Ohio's "big four."

Several thousand persons are expected to participate in the parade, according to Colonel J. H. Dowling, who has charge of the arrangements. The parade is scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m.

Many of the delegates and boosters arrived in the city last night and others came in this morning. Two special trains will carry them to San Francisco.

Habeas Corpus Proceedings For Life Terms

KANSAS CITY, MO., June 19.—Habeas corpus petitions on behalf of 39 negro prisoners now serving life sentences in the federal prison at Leavenworth were up for hearing before Judge John C. Pollock in the United States district court in Kansas City, Kansas today.

The 39 were received at the prison in December, 1917, sentenced by court martial for participation in a riot by negro troops of the 24th Infantry at Houston, August 24, 1917, in which 12 white men, police officers, national guardsmen and civilians were killed. Thirteen negroes, convicted by court martial, were hanged. President Wilson confirmed the life sentences imposed on the 39.

Harding Not To Take A Vacation

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Senator Warren G. Harding today had abandoned his plan for taking a vacation and remained in Washington for further conferences with party leaders. It was said these conferences, held for the purpose of learning the views of, and bringing together in harmonious organization, various factions of the party, likely would be continued until the nominee leaves for his home in Marion, where he will be notified formally of his nomination.

The date of the notification still was undecided today but an announcement as to that was expected. Senator Harding still was receiving belated congratulations and promises of support from Republican leaders throughout the country and many of them called in person to discuss with him issues of the forthcoming campaign. All were agreed that the first and most essential step was to bring about harmony and to weld into one organization all elements of the party.

OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 19—Higher prices prevailed at the opening of today's stock market, further covering of short contracts on prospective gold imports giving impetus to the advance which embraced every important division of the list except rails. The independent steels, notably Crucible and Vanadium, also oils, motors and equipments, leathers and chemicals averaged gains of 1 to 1 1-2 points. Chicago Pneumatic Tool was the strongest feature, rising 2 1-2 points.

IRISH FACTIONS IN ALL NIGHT GUN BATTLE

LONDONDERRY, IRELAND, June 19—This city spent another night of terror last night as a result of violent pistol and rifle fighting between Nationalists and Unionists. There was a two hour pitched battle at the riverside. Comparative quiet was finally restored by the soldiery.

Many of the unionists engaged in the hostilities were ex-soldiers.

The small police force in the city was powerless in the face of the violence of the opposing parties and the military ultimately had to be called out. The efforts of the troops resulted in the restoration of comparatively tranquil conditions by midnight, although firing continued several hours more.

The reports received by the authorities during the morning showed that several men had been wounded in the fighting.

During the fray, armed parties of both factions controlled large areas in various parts of the city. These parties stopped all pedestrians, whom they searched for arms.

Londonderry was the scene of violent rioting on Saturday night May 15, Unionists and Nationalists clashing for hours in parts of the Ulster city. A policeman was killed by the rioters and many persons were wounded during the fighting. The rioting was renewed on Sunday and hundreds of troops had to brought to the scene. It was not until well into the week that the city was fully quieted down. The principal trouble area was between the Unionists quarter of Fountain streets and the Sinn Fein quarter of Bridge street.

TROOPS GUARD JAIL WHERE NEGROES HELD

DULUTH, MINN., June 19.—National guardsmen from the state encampment at Fort Snelling, arrived here early today to reinforce the guard about the St. Louis county jail where 14 negroes are being held in connection with an attack upon a young white girl. The soldiers are armed with machine guns and rifles and will have orders to "shoot to kill" if necessary to uphold the law.

The request for the troops was made last night by Sheriff Magie, of St. Louis county, to Governor Burnquist at St. Paul. The sheriff declared he had information that an organized attack was to be made tonight on the county jail in an effort to lynch the negroes. Last Tuesday night a mob of 5,000 persons wrecked the city jail and hanged three negroes arrested in connection with the attack on the girl.

The 101 guardsmen are under command of Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow and four other officers.

Duluth early today was quiet. Officials declared they were confident the presence of the guardsmen would serve to aid in thwarting any plot to raid the jail.

Camp Sherman May Have College

CAMP SHERMAN, June 19—Camp Sherman may have a college next fall, if Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis approves of the plan and the personnel of the camp permits its execution. It is the idea of officials of the educational department to group all soldiers taking educational courses together, excuse them from the necessary guard and fatigue, give them two hours drill and military instruction and let them have the rest of their working time for studying, and recitation.

A four months course is contemplated under the plan. There must be at least 1500 men in the camp to make it feasible and with this number only 200 soldiers can be admitted to the school. Of course with a correspondingly larger number of students will be permitted. At present there are only 1500 men in camp.

It required but one hour and six minutes for the Irving Drew team to triumph by the score of 3 to 1 over the Arch Preservers at the Seventeenth street yard last evening. The game was a pitcher's duel between Frank Geiger of the Drews and his sterling opponent, Ed Mowery, of the Selbys. The latter allowed but three hits during the entire evening, but one of the singles was followed by a walk and this by an error, the combination being enough to put the game on ice for the Drews. On the other hand it required the assistance of an error to give the Selbys their lone run, "Red Snapper" Thompson dropping a perfect toss as Mr. Kearns, who was the hitting demon of the evening, slid across the rubber.

The game was a well played and highly scientific exhibition and was thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd. Both pitchers were at the top of their form and it was the team that finally got the breaks that won. Geiger twirled practically perfect ball. He seemed to have a world of stuff last evening, curving the ball across the corners and keeping it out of the groove. It made no difference to him who was at the bat, for he mowed the clubbers down with consistent regularity, with the exception of Right Fielder Kearns, who helped himself to a couple of safeties and walked on the last occasion, giving him a perfect day with the willow. Geiger fanned four men and walked but one, which showed that he did his work well and capably. Mowery was not hard to hit, but he was there putting the ball across and depending upon his support. That his confidence in his backers was not misplaced, was shown by the fact that he allowed but three hits and fanned but one man. He made the fatal mistake of walking Lewis in the sixth inning immediately after Doherty had driven a clean single to left. Up until this time but two men had reached the initial sack and in the first three innings Mowery had retired the Drews in order.

The fans were glad to note that Jack Hartlage was back in the line-up for the Drews. Jack had decided to quit the game because his eyesight is failing. He is a million ways from losing his sight, but he had concluded he had given a good many years to the game and would graciously step aside for some one younger than he. The lure of the game, however, was too much for one of his blood and he was back last evening and played a great game in right field, besides doing some effective coaching at third base. It was due to his chatter at third that resulted in the Drews winning the game. Doherty had led off in the fifth with a single. Hartlage saw that Mowery was faltering and yelled for Lewis to wait it out. The kid batter followed instructions and secured a walk. This was the break in the game. Cooper laid down a perfect sacrifice, but Monk in his eagerness to get the ball to first ahead of the batter, threw high and Doherty scored and Lewis and Cooper moved up a base. Thompson shot a hard roller toward second, but Hock, who fielded the ball perfectly, had no chance to retire Lewis at the plate and was content to toss Thompson out at first. Geiger slammed one right at Hock, but the throw reached the plate too late to catch Cooper, who slid home to safety. A perfect toss would have nailed the runner but the throw was high. The next two batters were easy.

The Selbys made their only score in the fourth. Monk, first up, sent a long fly to left which Floyd Smith smothered. Kearns, however, got hold of one for a line single to middle, which was handled quickly. Spence shot one to right for a double. On Collis' rap to short, Kearns scored, due, primarily to Thompson dropping the throw home. Spence attempted to sneak home when Collis was trapped between first and second, but this time Thompson held onto the ball and the first sacker was declared out. Bihlman skied to third.

When Floyd Smith stepped to the bat the first time, the game was halted and on behalf of W. W. Bauer, real estate dealer, Umpire "Buck" Yeager, made a neat little presentation address and handed Mr. Smith a crisp $5.00 bill, a reward for his home run drive of June 11. Mr. Smith tried to duplicate the drive, but unfortunately for him, Bihlman was playing up on the N. & W. right of way and managed to get under his terrific swat. Smith, however, did make a home run drive in the sixth, but was sent back to third. His drive went among the fleet of automobiles in right field and while the slugger crossed the plate before the ball could be fielded, he was waved back to third out of respect to the ground rules. But it was some hit at that. The score:

SOME WILD AND WOOLY WESTERN TYPES WILL BE SEEN AT THE 'FRISCO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION SHOW

Two Games At Millbrook Sunday

The bargain attraction offered for Sunday afternoon when a double header will be staged, will, beyond a doubt, draw a great throng of fans and establish the high water mark attendance for this season. The first game, which will be called at 1:15 new time, will be between the famous colored team, the Buckeyes, of Portsmouth, and the colored Beros of Ironton. This game will no doubt be the sensation of the season. Not that the two clubs are not capable of playing the game right up to the handle, but because colored teams have a humorous way all their own. When they get to chattering on the side lines, the fun is fast and furious and when they pull off some startling play, there is a twitch, or a look or a yoop that simply sets the fans dippy. There are some great humorists among the Portsmouth players and they are sure to add a lot of mirth along the way.

The aftermath, which will be started at 3 o'clock, fast time, will be staged by the Wiedemanns of Cincinnati and Gabe's all stars and will be a struggle well worth witnessing. The fans here are well acquainted with the class of the Wiedemanns. Manager Applegate stands pat high with the people of Portsmouth and his club is always assured of a great reception at Millbrook Park. The Wiedemanns have the edge on the boats this season, having won the only game played this year. The All Stars are anxious to get a crack at the Browers and expect to even up the score. Despite the fact that two games will be played, the regular schedule of prices will prevail. Umpires Yeager and Spencer will be the arbitrators.

ELKS ALL SET FOR IRONTON TRIP

If confidence in one's self assures success, then the local Elk team is sure of a victory over the Ironton Elks in Beechwood Park in Ironton, Sunday afternoon.

Memories of the old Ohio State League days and the brand of baseball that Ironton is noted for, makes the local boys feel sure that they can give the up-river aggregation a good trimming. The slogan is "Let's Get Ironton," and many friends and boosters of the team are planning to make the trip Sunday and are looking forward to a good time all around, provided Ironton comes across with the "Slunch."

All Elks that are slated for the team are requested to meet at the local club rooms Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock Central (old time) time, or 10:00 o'clock city time, (new time) and go up in a body to receive "that lunch", and then the real feed in the evening, which they have promised. All players are to have uniforms and are to carry their traveling cards. Let's go.

You tell 'em, Jack about 'mlein'" it.

Rick's Team Is Blanked

Cincinnati gained a few points on St. Louis yesterday as while the Moran Men were idle in Beantown the Phils blanked the Cardinals 1 to 0.

On Thursday the Cards blanked the Phils, 1 to 0. In the two games the Phils have only acquired six hits, which shows the gilt edge pitching Bicker's team is getting.

You tell 'em Artie I'll choke.

Sox Have Shot Bolt

It begins to look like the White Sox are out of it this season. The team is hitting well but the pitching has been wretched. Cicotte, shorn of his shine ball is about as effective as Hod Eller or reckless Slim Sallee. The Yanks have just beaten the Sox three in a row.

You tell 'em figs I'm dated.

Cleveland Is Going Some

The Cleveland Indians are playing consistent ball in the American league. They are still in front and it really begins to look like the team that will beat them out will win the pennant in the American league.

Speaker is not only a great ball player but is developing into a real manager.

You tell 'em core I'm on the 'Rhine.'

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, June 19.—Norman A. Cullop, former New York American pitcher, who joined the Salt Lake Club of the Pacific Coast League this season, has retired from baseball and left today for his home in Virginia.

Red Game Postponed

The Reds were idle again Friday, rain preventing a game in Boston. The team has been hoodooed on weather this season, losing thousands of dollars as a result of A. P. being on the job.

Japanese Launchings Are "Dry."

The Japanese observances attending the launching of a ship, as described by a writer, are begun with a religious ceremony. Then the ship is released in the usual way, but instead of cracking a bottle of champagne across her stem, great quantities of cut flowers, usually chrysanthemums, and the sponsor's bouquet and a number of live pigeons are scattered from a decorated globe suspended over the launching platform, the sponsor pulling a cord. The flowers fall about the launching party as the freed birds circle overhead.

Portsmouth Hat Co.	5	0	1000
Gilbert Bros. Co.	2	2	.500
Standard Supply Co.	2	3	.400
Hibbs Hdw. Co.	0	4	.000

In the first extra inning game played in the Manufacturer's or Wholesaler's Leagues the Portsmouth Hat Co. Friday night kept up their fighting spirit and in eight innings won from Hibbs Hardware by the score of 8 to 7. The score was tied in the seventh and went the one extra inning when the Hat men showed another rally across the rubber.

The games was played fast and was close and exciting all the way through. Hibbs started off like a house afire and scored three in the first, the Hat boys not counting until the second when they managed to get two runs. The score then stood 3 to 2 until the sixth when Hibbs in the first half of that frame scored 2 making the score 5 to 2. This somewhat discouraged the Hat men but as they had two more innings to go they put it down right there that the remainder of the game would be a real battle. In the last half of the sixth the Hat boys staged a rally with Pfunmer starting it by getting on with a hit. He advanced to third on outs by Haas and Hoolund and came home on Evans roller which was muffed. Doerr got on with a hit and Reinhard walked filling the bases. Jackson then grounded out for Schucky who gave the ball a ride along the third base line for a clean single, clearing the bags and bringing the total up to 5 which made the score 7 to 5. Hibbs came back in the first part of the 7th and tied it with a hit and a bad peg to third to catch a man stealing. In the eighth after Hibbs had failed to score the Hat men filled the bases with a hit, an error and a base on balls. Jackson then lost his own game by pitching four wide ones to Smith, forcing Evans with the winning tally.

Dilly Catching Great Ball

Have you been noticing the brand of ball Dillhoefer is putting up for the Cardinals? He is batting and throwing in old time form and of course is there with the old pepper. Rickey recently remarked in a fanning bee that Dilly was one of the best young catchers in the National league.

You tell 'em Latchet, I saw 'em.

South Webster At McDermott

Sunday afternoon the McDermott team will play on their home grounds and will have as their opponents the fast nine representing South Webster. The game will be called to play at 1:30 sharp. Ballinger will be on the mound for McDermott after a week's rest. The following players will appear in the McDermott lineup: Ballinger, Hazelbaker, McCormick, Kerr, Clark, Branham, Elliott, Jeanneret, Snively and Kilgore.

You tell 'em ginger, it's a soap.

"Miracle Men" vs. "Cubs" At Coney Island Sunday

The Miracle Men will play at Coney Island Sunday, June 20th. At Jackson, Sunday June 27th. At Ripley, July 4th and 5th. They are also booked for Waverly and Maysville in July.

The following players are asked to report at The Quick Repair Shoe Shop Saturday night, Stillwell, Chase, Dunham, Goode, Portner, Wells, Smith, Banfield, Bartlett and Hartlage. The Miracle Men will meet the Portsmouth Cubs at Coney Island tomorrow afternoon. The ferry boat will leave the foot of Chillicothe street at 1 and 2 o'clock p. m. Central Standard time.

The Miracle Men compose a great club and the Cubs will have their hands full to hold them. Townsend and Jones will form the battery for the Cubs and will be expected to be mighty obstacles in the path of victory. An admission of 25 cents will be charged at the gate. No doubt a great crowd will witness the struggle.

GOLF PHYSICAL RECREATION, IS PERMISSIBLE, SAYS HUNTINGTON MAYOR

The Huntington Herald Dispatch Saturday said:

"Golfing is a sport and physical recreation, and so far as I am concerned may be played in Huntington at any time. Furthermore, all of the links available to Huntington people are outside of the city limits, without our jurisdiction."

With this statement yesterday morning Mayor C. W. Campbell set at rest a rumor that he intended to stop golf playing at the Country Club on Sunday.

"There are but two links, one at the Huntington Country Club, in Wayne county, and the other, yet to be completed, at the Guyan Club, on the Pea Ridge Road. So, even if it were the intention to prohibit golf playing on Sunday, which is not the case, the city would have no part in enforcing the statute, since the links are not inside the corporate limits," concluded Mr. Campbell.

MORAN MAY SIGN COLLEGE PITCHERS

BOSTON, June 19—Manager Moran today had a visit from John Henry, the former Washington and Boston catcher, who is now coaching the Cornell College team. Henry recommended two college pitchers who he thinks are good for the big show. One of them is from Amherst and the other from his own team at Cornell. The Red leader did not even ask their names, but directed Henry to have them both report to him at Philadelphia on Monday and John promised that he would have them there. One of the youngsters is a right-hander and the other is a southpaw. Manager Moran also heard that the Cincinnati club had offered a large sum for Pitcher Morrison of the Birmingham team, but that it has been refused.

Two Men Tourney Scores

The following scores were made in Masonic League two man tournament at the Play House last evening. It will be noted that Lemon and Tatje rolled the highest totals to date namely 628. This score will no doubt win them a prize. A remarkable fact about the tourney is that three teams have rolled the scores of 947. The results of Friday night follow:

Herzog Not With Cublets

After hanging around the Cubs' hotel for a week in Chicago waiting for Manager Mitchell to relent, Charley Herzog has departed for his home in Maryland. No doubt Rickey thinks things have come to a pretty mess when the manager of a ball team insists on a player delivering the goods.

You tell 'em oyster, I'm skelled.

A 50 per cent increase for an article that cost $1 would make it cost $1.50. But for the article that has doubled in price the new price is 200 per cent of the old.

THE FAITH OF HIS FOLLOWERS

SAMUEL GOMPERS is less popular in the papers than he is among the people to whose cause he has devoted the greater part of his life.

Stories have come out of Montreal that the Labor Federation had grown irked and rebellious under his domination of near four decades and powerful opposition was growing up to his re-election. Only yesterday there came one with much circumstantiality of detail, saying dominant elements had combined against him, he had the struggle of his career before him and his probable overthrow was stated next to a foregone conclusion. Scarce had the wires grown cold when they took up a second story that he had been re-elected president of the Federation by a unanimous vote amidst the most exuberant enthusiasm a convention of the sort had ever shown.

So doth fact belie fancy, so doth the choice of some chagrin the wish of others. It is well, in this instance, that it is thus. For say what may be said of him otherwise, there can be no gainsaying the fact that Samuel Gompers is a big man and bigness makes him a conservative man. In war times he gave fervid support to the government and his steadying hand held labor fast to the immense strain placed upon it. No man proclaimed America first in louder or truer terms than he and his voice was heard and heeded on two continents.

One does not have to agree with him, or even in anything except his Americanism, to know this appreciatively. A small man, a blatant demagog, a man neither honest, nor sincere, could not stand chief among hundreds of his fellow kind for a period that runs longer by far than the average human life.

Certainly, Gompers may fall into error and run to extreme here and there, but in the main he must be gifted above the ordinary, he must be loyal and honest, he must desire substantial justice and right, else he would long ago have gone to fall.

JUST CERTAINTY AND NOT EXTREME

ANOTHER automobile was stolen hereabouts this week.

In a discussion where the frequency of such thefts was up for discussion one of the participants therein advanced the opinion that the only way to stop them was the imposition of the death penalty.

This met with little concurrence and rightly so. The crime is serious as to the amount always involved and has become considerable of a plague, but an extreme penalty is not demanded. Of a truth the slaying of one would lend entirely to defeat the very end it seeks to bring about.

A penalty should always be in reasonable proportion to the crime it would punish. In prevention the extent plays the smaller part: it is the certainty thereof that is most effective. Energy and wit of officials, with the automobile public lending hearty support, should be concentrated on conviction. With the prompt exercise of these successful pursuit of automobile thieves ought not to be a matter of particular difficulty, as for one thing the telephone will lend ready service.

In this connection the suggestion is made that every dealer in second hand automobiles should be required to make daily reports of purchases made by him, with accurate description of the name, numbers and other characteristics of the car. This would seem to be particularly efficacious as auto thefts are made in most instances by thieves, who know just where they can immediately dispose of them.

Prohibition Chief Kramer says Philadelphia is the wettest city in the union. Now that shows what an excellent thing virtue is. Philadelphia merely professes it, yet she gets away with more raw rottenness than any place on the map. Think of what a shining reputation she would have if she were only to back up profession with half practice.

It is shocking even to mention it, but in the interest of fair play we stick a pin in the fact that up at Des Moines, a thousand miles above Mason and Dixon's line, thousands stormed the city jail, took out three Negroes and hung them.

Easiest thing in the world to say the other side is going wrong, but, the evidence multiplies, the hardest thing in the world to say which is the right way.

Weather man has hit it again. Announced Wednesday it would be cooler next day. As a matter of fact Thursday was cold, or if it were not it made people shrug and shiver to about the same effect.

Some of those Missourians are becoming the victims of a quickened conscience and are returning the Lowden money they received.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

JACK SAVES THE DAY

We did that, in fear and trembling, at first, but, bless your heart, Jack is a true sport through and through. Listen to the tale of woe.

Mrs. Edmonds had led the weeping Laura to Jack's private office after leaving us in the studio, and told Jack everything.

It seems that she and Laura had planned to give dear Morgan a little surprise (which, by the way, is something that the wives of artists should never do) and call for him in the car and take him for a spin in the country. Being a fiancee, now, Laura could do so, and they had arrived post-haste only to find the false one in the midst of painting Jack's fiancee—and unchaperoned! It had been too much for them to bear, alone, hence the visit to Jack's office.

I must say that my future husband rose to the occasion manfully. As they were reciting their woes an inspiration came to him, and when they had finished he leaned back in his chair and laughed and laughed till the tears rolled from his eyes.

"Good gracious, Laura—and you, mother—what an old wives' tale you come to me with," Jack told them. "Don't you know that Morgan Travers is a good friend of mine—a very good friend in fact—and furthermore it is at my request that he is at this moment painting Lindsey's portrait. I want it for her boudoir in the new bungalow, and so does she. It was I who suggested the whole thing and took her to the studio myself."

"That's funny," answered my shrewd mother-in-law quickly. "Lindsey never mentioned your name, and she said most distinctly that Jean had taken her to Mr. Travers' studio. Are you sure of all this, my son?"

"Never more sure of anything in my life, mater," he answered. Then being a quick sort of a guy, and realizing that I must have said that I had come to Morgan's place with Jean he took his cue from same. I call that classically clever.

"As for little Jean, we met her at luncheon today and she told us that she was going to be married next week, so we celebrated together, and then I suggested that she and I bring Lindsey to Morgan's studio. I left them there, and between you and me, mother, Lindsey could not be in any better hands than those of your own daughter's fiancee. I am really pained and surprised at you both for your uncharitable thoughts, etc."

You may imagine that at the end of this recital of Jack's, Morgan or no Morgan, I threw my arms around his beloved neck and hugged the life out of him with joy and love and gratitude. He seemed to take to it kindly and returned the compliment in hundred-fold.

Furthermore there were no reproaches when once we were alone, after spending a happy hour with Morgan. No, siree! Jack smiled when I started to explain the whys and wherefores, and said he wished that I would learn to understand that he was not my worst enemy, neither did he wish to make me feel that I owed him an explanation for every move I make, etc. That there was no harm in the world in my going to an old classmate's studio and posing for him if it helped him out, and that he knew enough about me to be able to trust me, anywhere. Yes, those were the very words, little book.

May I mention in passing that they brought the tears to my eyes? And instead of a miserable evening, that I had pictured, we spent a very happy one together, lost in each other's embraces, and in roseate-colored dreams of the future.

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

SENATOR OWEN.

A real American from Oklahoma aspires to sit in the White House. The blood of an Indian family which produced a chief of the seven clans of the Cherokees is in the veins of Senator Robert Latham Owen, Democratic presidential possibility.

SEN. OWEN

Senator Owen, who has sat in the upper house of congress since 1907, is a great-great-great grandson of Quatsis, sister of Chulumma (the Raven), who was chief of the Cherokees early in the eighteenth century. Quatsis married a missionary, and from them Senator Owen is descended on his mother's side.

Senator Owen long has been aligned with what is the progressive thought of the Democratic party, and in the senate has been an expert on banking and finance. He managed the federal reserve and federal farm loan acts in the senate.

Robert Latham Owen was born at Lynchburg, Va., February 2, 1856. Attended Washington and Lee university. Was teacher at the Cherokee orphan asylum in 1879 and 1880, began practicing law in 1880, and from 1881 to 1884 was secretary of the board of education of the Cherokee nation. Was Indian agent for the Five Civilized Tribes from 1885 to 1889.

Senator Owen organized the First National Bank of Muskogee, and today is interested in real estate, banking and farming. He has been president of the National Popular Government League since its organization. Was elected to the senate in 1907, re-elected in 1912, and elected for the third time in 1918.

Deadly Durango Scorpion.

While the scorpion pest in the city of Durango and its immediate environs is serious enough, it is in the so-called "malo" or bad belt which borders the Sierra Madre range that the insects are so numerous as to make the region practically uninhabitable. They have even rid the region of all other animal life. It is only occasionally that some venturesome native enters the territory. In other parts of Mexico where scorpions are found in considerable numbers their stings are not of deadly effect, although painful. It is explained by scientists that the reason the Durango scorpions are the bearers of such a deadly poison is that they absorb into their system in some manner a peculiar quality of the mineralized soil of the territory that they inhabit.

New Use for Airplane Engine.

A London factory owner believes himself the first to use an airplane engine as an ordinary power unit. Only a small part of the rated horse power is used.

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

In the fireman's bedroom, where Billy Jr. had chased the mean fireman, was an open hole with a greased pole coming up through the middle for the firemen to slide down when an alarm of fire was sent in. Billy was up the stairs and into the room almost as soon as the man himself, who in mad haste made a grab for the greased pole and down he went, leaving Billy rather doubtful as to what course to pursue; but quickly seeing the impossibility of a goat's trying to slide down either a greased or any other kind of a pole, he bounded down the stairs again. The firemen had to all appearances disappeared, but Billy sniffed the air suspiciously and glanced keenly first in one direction and then in another, he soon discovered his pet enemy rested in elevated position he feisly forebore attempting to reach and, instead, took up a position where no one could enter or leave the engine house without passing him, and then he calmly laid himself down and waited.

But the fates were against Billy Jr. and he was obliged to give up his position or get run over. Just as he got comfortably settled, the fire alarm rang out and each well trained horse rushed to his allotted place on engine, hose cart, or ladder wagon. As Billy saw the engine speed away with his enemy holding on behind and trying to get into his rubber coat, he said, "I have been cheated of my revenge today, but look out for tomorrow, you red-faced lubber," and with this parting threat he trotted off to find his friend, old One-horn.

Just as Billy was coming out of the engine house he came upon an old German couple leading a dainty little Nanny goat by a string. Now, it had been a long time since Billy had met a pretty Nanny and his heart fairly thumped with joy as he pranced up to make friends with her, but here is where he made a mistake. In his joy at seeing her pretty face he had forgotten that he must needs be introduced before approaching a strange Nanny, and this young thing proved to be unusually timid, so when she saw a big strange Billy goat running toward her as if he had known her since she was a baby kid, she promptly dodged behind her mistress. Billy, nothing daunted, followed after her, as his head appeared at one side of the old fat woman, Nanny's appeared at the other, and the faster she ran the faster he followed. This they kept up until the poor woman was wound round and round by the rope, so that she could not move and, being equally as timid as her little charge, she at last fainted and fell forward on the walk, knocking Billy off of his feet and throwing Nanny down upon her knees. When Billy saw the mischief he had been the cause of, and also saw the old woman's husband coming after him with a thick club, he wisely disappeared round the first corner, pondering in his mind over the foolishness of young kids in general and of this one in particular.

(Billy Jr. visits the fireman's home in the next story.)

The Twilight Woods

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer)

In the depths of the twilight woods
When the mountainous lands are green,
All the trees speak with whispered words
Unto Nature, the springtime queen.

It is there where the quiet lires
That the breath of the budding leaves
Gives our heartstrings the balm of peace,
In that place where the woodwind grieves.

Through the paths of prolific loom
Where the crystalline streamlets sound,
Let us roam. There, men's wearied feet
Tread a vast unmolested ground.

From the midst of the twilight woods
Is our wandering vision led,
Where the angels with powder puffs
Brushed the far dusky mountain's head.

With a love for each verdant tree,
And a prayer for the charms that were,
I must go—since my heart returns
To those woodlands of spruce and fir.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 19—If everything continues to drop like prices have in Manhattan recently some of our best tenors will find themselves the owners of deep bass voices. The old clothing placard "Take me home for $22.50" has been dusted off and hangs out in front on the suit that was selling for $75 a few weeks ago.

And those sprightly young men of the Blake who are connected with the best families—by telephone—find that they can dress in all their pre-war glamour for the Pull-Me-In shops near the Pennsylvania depot on Seventh avenue are disposing of nifty made over second hand clothes for $7 each. And so the young blades may have a suit for every day in the week.

It was rough picking for them when a hand-me-down second hand suit sold for $35 for it was their "front" that permitted them to pose as young swells around the hotel lobbies and cabarets cadging drinks and making small flying touches. Now they may strut and effect the English drawl with the same old abandon.

Several of the big cafes have cut down prices slightly but hardly enough to notice. The best news come from the Bowery where Beefsteak John has restored the 15 cent dinner—steak, potatoes, coffee and a vegetable. When the Kaiser went loco he had to charge 25 cents and it was a serious blow to the human driftwood that looked forward to at least one good meal a peak at his sawdust carpeted culinary palace.

A new retail candy store just off Fifth Avenue opened with a bang several days ago and announced old before the war prices. It put quite a crimp in the Fifth Avenue shops that are charging $1.75 a pound for almost every kind of candy. Silk skirts in many of the best shops are marked down to $4.50 and the tailor made skirts are now being sold for $15 whereas they formerly sold as high as $35.00.

Most all of us will sympathize with Ed Wynn, the comedian, who complains that the laundries do not clean his collars anymore. "They sharpen them!" he says.

Gradually all of the New York hotels are lifting the ban on dogs. It used to be that all of them permitted dogs if not in the rooms in kennels in the basement. Then an English concern came along and built an exclusive hotel and they literally retailed exclusiveness. One thing they refused to permit was a dog. Several other hotels followed the lead like sheep. But the newer hotels have scientific kennels and those who haven't kennels are permitting dogs of all kinds. But they are making a charge of $1 a day. And what is that to a man who loves his dog?

Some way or other the bobbed hair prejudice is disappearing. It is true that the big department stores will not employ girls who bob their hair and this in spite of the fact they employ floor walkers with bald heads and Van Dyke beards—but it seems bobbed hair has come to stay. Greenwich Village put a stigma on the fashion at first. At one of the last nights of grand opera a music critic counted ten women in private boxes who had bobbed hair. At the races, smart cafes and theatres they are frequently seen. Many of them are married women who have found it is the only way they can keep their hair and still others find it the most becoming way for them. One of the society journals tell of a matron past 60 who recently appeared at a social function with her silver hair bobbed. That is perhaps going too far.

Retribution

"And just as the German let go of his machine gun and howled 'Kamerad' I recognized him as an old restaurant waiter."

"Oh, and then?"

"I tossed him a bomb and told him to keep the change."—Home Sector.

Appreciation

Friend of the Institution—"What do the inmates think of the new asylum?"

Keeper—"They just rave over it, sir!"—London Mail.

Lonesome

"So you have decided to marry again."

"Yes. You don't know how lonesome it is going home nights and having nobody there to find fault with me."

Applying The Meaning

Stenographer—"I see they have a picture at the Majestic called 'Silk Husbands and Calico Wives.' I think the name very apropos."

Newspaper Editor—"All right. I'll apply it right now. I'll wager you have silk hose on at this moment; I am wearing cotton."

Steno—"Oh, now, you're taking an unfair advantage."

So Say We

"Bobby," said the teacher to a pupil in the juvenile class, "What is syntax?"

"I guess it must be the tax on whiskey," replied Bobby. And the teacher thought he was entitled to a credit of 100 percent.

Marked Improvement

Little Beryl, aged ten, was a very pretty and intelligent girl, but she had one fault—she was inclined to be vain. At every available opportunity she gazed at herself complacently in the looking glass. Her fond papa noticed that the habit was growing upon her and took upon himself the duty of correcting it.

"Why do you always look in the glass?" he asked.

"I was just thinking how nice I looked," answered Beryl.

"You mustn't be so vain, child. Remember we are all as nature made us."

"Did nature make you, papa?"

"Yes."

"Then," said Beryl, looking at him and then at her reflection in the mirror, "don't you think nature is turning out better work than she used to?"

Very Human—These Monkeys!

"Sitting dejectedly outside the camp," says Capt. William Ashley Anderson in his thrilling story of patrolling the African game country, "I watched a troop of baboons with rising interest; though droll, they are dangerous if you arouse their ill will. So I did not laugh to offend the lumbering elders; for I found they are also bound by laws as are their brothers, the human beings—have their conventions and live up to them. The old men are rough and surly, cynical with their women folk and annoyed at the chattering of the children; the women are patient but shy, dragging the whimpering totoes about."

Test of Good Steel.

Good steel is not only hard but it has also an energy of its own. There are knives that will literally cut an iron rail, but nothing else, because they cannot be ground sufficiently fine as to let the blade pass through the material. The cutting ability of a pocket knife, a razor or a pair of shears is derived from the fineness of the edge. A fine edge can be produced only of steel that is full of life and springiness, because the blade must not cut only but must be able to select the most suitable spot for entering the material.

BOYS RANSACK CRAWFORD HOME; ARE ARRESTED

Returning home at 10:30 last night, Misses Vere and Margaret Crawford, of Hutchins and Nineteenth streets, inserted the key in the rear door, and were greeted with a disturbance that sounded like a game in the phi alley as two boys, Louis Gibbs, 14, son of C. D. Gibbs, 2321 Grant street and Miles Yaple, 15, son of Albert S. Yaple of 1921 Eighteenth street overturned furniture and made a scramble for the nearest exits from the Crawford home.

Former Sheriff E. W. Smith and Seymour Bein, neighbors, hearing the commotion rushed in and found Vere Crawford struggling with the Gibbs boy who had a 32 Smith and Wesson revolver in his hand while another noise from the upstairs indicated that the Yaple boy had jumped through a screen onto the sleeping porch and slid to the ground making good his escape for the time being.

Furniture was upturned, drawers ransacked and everything displaced, it was found.

The Gibbs boy, bewailing his arrest and pleading to be let go, stoutly refused to disclose who his partner was and it was not until Sheriff E. E. Rickey and Deputy Sheriff Elza Canter were called and took the boy to the county jail that he would tell the name of the other boy.

Sheriff Rickey and Deputy Canter went to the Yaple home at midnight where Miles Yaple confessed to his part in the robbery and turned over to Sheriff Rickey a strand of pearl beads, a valuable tie pin, silver cup and several trinkets of value. Both boys are being detained in the county jail and will have a hearing before Judge Gilliland.

Miss Crawford stated that a diamond pin valued at $100 was still missing, and a search for the pin was futile and it is thought that it might have been lost in the yard or about the house after being taken by the boys.

Louis Gibbs, when searched had a bunch of keys, the name on one of the keys denoting that they were the property of those recently lost by Charles Spencer of Franklin avenue, and a large pocket knife. Both boys said they entered the Crawford home through a window above the rear porch.

THE MOST TALKED OF HOUSE IN U. S.—WHERE COOLIDGE LIVES

The house, in left half of which Gov. Coolidge lives, and his sons, Calvin Jr. (left), and John, studying on the front steps.

The recent statement of Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts, vice presidential nominee of the Republicans, that he is paying $32 a month rent for the Coolidge home at Northampton, Mass., is one of the most interesting angles in the man's life story. Coolidge made the statement to correct the report he was paying $35. "Lucky boy," is the verdict of thousands of husbands who face the high rent problem. The Coolidges occupy half of a double house, a modest dwelling. Calvin Jr. and John, the nominee's sons, are typical American youths. The photographer happened to catch them reading in a lull in the day's activities which right now consist mainly of baseball and swimming.

Tax Time Is Extended

The time limit for the payment of June taxes has been extended to July 10, Treasurer Gilbert F. Dodds announced Saturday, and at which time the books will positively be closed, the official stated, in connection with a warning urging all persons owing taxes to take advantage of the extended time to pay up and by so doing avoid the payment of penalties provided by law.

The time limit for the payment of cigarette taxes, expired today, and many dealers secured their licenses during the day to escape heavy penalties provided under a new law which becomes effective Monday.

Luxurious Roman Belles.

The belles of Rome were fond of jewelry—rings, pins, bracelets, necklaces, earrings. They wore very few diamonds, however. Not because diamonds were expensive, but for a far more important reason—because they were not stylish. No prejudice kept the fair charmer of Rome from the use of cosmetics and face powder to enhance her beauty. With oils and tonics rubbed into her scalp, she strove to make her hair thick and lustrous. If nature had been niggardly she supplemented the scant tresses with curls or switches. If the color of her hair was unbecoming she might, and often did, dye it. And red hair, be it said, golden red hair, was the popular shade which made many a Roman matron seek the ancient equivalent of the henna shampoo.

Italian "City of Crime."

The only town in the world which can boast of possessing more criminals than law-abiding folk is the Italian city of Artena, which is known as the City of Crime. For several hundred years nearly every criminal who has escaped prison or done time in Italy has emigrated to Artena, and today practically every inhabitant of the place is a criminal or the child of a criminal.

Dismiss Greek; Accuser Gone

When the case of the State against Nick Stavros, 32, who is charged with assaulting Miss Helen Caplin, 1113 Thirteenth street came up for hearing in Municipal court this morning, the prosecuting witness failed to appear, and the case was promptly dismissed by the court.

I was stated to the court by Attorney L. A. Thompson that Miss Caplin, whose real name it was alleged is Mrs. Ida Caplin left town last night.

Attorneys W. R. Sprague and L. A. Thompson appeared for Stavros who is connected with the confectionery at Fifth and Chillicothe streets.

The accused strenuously denied the charge against him and said that Miss Caplin applied to him early yesterday morning for a position in the store, but that he made no assault on her.

Auto Driver Is Exonerated

O. P. Ramey, local resident who was held in Toledo jail Thursday following the death of a woman about fifty years old, who died as the result of injuries sustained when a new Chevrolet automobile he was driving through to this city, struck the woman while on a grade crossing of a railroad, has been exonerated.

The inquest in the case was held Friday morning and after the inquest, the coroner in charge, exonerated Ramey, and ordered his release from jail. According to testimony given by the only eye witness to the scene, a Toledo resident, Ramey sounded his horn in plenty of time for the woman to get out of the way and she kept on walking until she was directly in the path of the machine. The testimony showed that Ramey was driving carefully and slowly and could not be held responsible for the accident and death of the woman, who died of internal injuries and a fractured skull.

Ramey who lives on the Boulevard, arrived home at midnight Friday from Toledo. Word of Ramey's exoneration was received Friday afternoon by Adolph Glockner, local agent for Chevrolet automobile, who had a friend in Toledo looking after Ramey's part in the case.

WATER POWER BILL, TEN YEARS IN MAKING, FINALLY BECOMES LAW

WASHINGTON, June 19—The water power development bill, ten years in the making, finally has become law.

Announcement that President Wilson had signed the measure prior to June 11, was made late yesterday at the White House. At the same time it was announced that he had failed to sign the joint resolution repealing most of the wartime laws and the Underwood resolution, providing for negotiation with Canada relative to the embargo on the shipment of wood pulp to the United States.

Another bill which failed to receive the President's approval would have authorized the war department to transfer motor equipment to the department of agriculture for road construction and other work.

Besides the water power measure, the President signed seven bills, passed in the closing days of the recent session of congress. They included an act authorizing the enlistment in the military forces of non-English speaking citizens and aliens, an act paying for a set of false teeth for Michael MacGinrvey and five bridge bills.

No explanation of the delay in answer of the water power measure was made.

Bootleggers Are Fined

Tony Poopock and Andy Seich and his wife, Mary Seich, three of the five foreigners arrested by New Boston officers in raids staged in the village Thursday night when two stills and a large quantity of material for the making of illicit liquor together with several gallons of the finished product were seized, pleaded guilty to charges of bootlegging when arraigned in New Boston police court Friday night.

Mayor Davis fined each of the defendants $200 and costs which was paid and the prisoners were released from custody.

Dan Boyen and Mike Champion at whose homes illicit liquor was also found by the raiders will be called up on to face similar charges in the mayor's court, it was stated this morning by Marshal Pete Hall.

It is probable the Federal officers will be notified and the five defendants may be prosecuted in the United States courts for alleged violations of the Volstead act.

PALMER WARNS AGAINST PRICE FIXING PACTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Warning that agreements between manufacturers and dealers which prevent dealers from reducing the selling prices of manufactured articles is unlawful was sounded today by the department of justice as part of its campaign to lower the cost of living.

Indictments recently were obtained against the Colgate Company, Attorney General Palmer stated, charging criminal violations of the Sherman act for procuring agreements with dealers to adhere to fixed resale prices. Absence of formal contracts will not avoid the provisions of the law, according to the attorney general as in the Colgate case the agreements in some instances consisted in the exchange of letters or in purely oral conversations.

General reduction in prices is expected by officials of the department as the result of the clear definition of the law as it is pointed out that many merchants have been unable to cooperate in the campaign to lower living costs, because of the fixed prices on certain manufactured articles.

X-RAY SHOWS COLLARBONE BROKEN

John Eckhart, who recently fell in his home on Grandview avenue, and was badly hurt, had an x-ray picture of his right collar bone taken Friday and it showed that it was broken in the fall. His injuries are not keeping him away from his work in the offices of the Whitaker-Glessner Company.

Etiquette of the Revolving Door.

The etiquette of the revolving door has yet to be standardized. At present there are two schools of opinion on the subject. One holds that when a man and a woman approach a revolving door it is the man's place to go first, pushing the door slowly so as to allow his partner to follow in the next compartment without any effort on her part. The other contends that ladies first still holds sway. It is good manners, these theorists say, for the man to step aside, let the woman start the door revolving, and then jump into the compartment behind her. In this way, it is contended, the man may assume control of the door and guide it until the woman ahead of him is safely out. The bitterest rivalry prevails between the two schools.—New York Evening Post.

Oil on Troubled Waters.

Poets and philosophers of all ages have sung of oil and its soothing qualities. "Why," asked Plutarch, "does pouring oil on the sea make it clear and calm? Is it for that the winds slipping the smooth oil have no force, nor cause any waves?" It is told in the Ecclesiastical history that the Bishop Adain gave holy oil to travelers, saying: "But do you remember to cast this oil I give you into the sea, and the wind shall cease immediately." Pliny the elder proclaimed that "everything is soothed by oil." Our own Ben Franklin wrote much on the phenomenon of oil on the troubled waters. It has grown to be an accepted belief in every walk of life that where there is oil to be poured forth there is peace.

To Test the Hearing.

The man with normal hearing can distinguish in a quiet room the ticking of a watch held in the hand of another person five feet away. A man with normal hearing can hear distinctly every word of a conversation being carried on 70 feet away. Again, if you are sitting in a concert room, a theater or a church, do you, when listening to the words of the speaker, lean forward in your seat in order to hear more clearly? If you do, it is a sign that your hearing is less normal than the rest of the audience; and the same applies, of course, to others who find it difficult to catch the words when sitting in a natural position. If you are talking to a person in the street you may find yourself listening intently for every word he may utter. Such a practice may have become a habit with you; it shows, at any rate, that your hearing is not what it ought to be. If your hearing is not normal—see your doctor at once.

Lucky Find of Manuscript.

In 1905 the overseers of the parish of West Pennard, Somerset, England, needing a new cover for their rate book, chose sheets of parchment. The cover has lasted until now, and it has just been discovered that the parchment is more precious than the whole of the rate the little parish has been paying. The rate book is found to be what proves to be part of a [illegible] volume dating back eight hundred or nine hundred years. It belonged to the library of Glastonbury abbey, and the despised covering is probably forming an important part of a work relating to times of which no other manuscript exists.

Origin of Attar of Roses

Tradition says that the secret of attar of roses originated through a certain sultana ordering a fountain in her garden to be kept supplied with rosewater. The action of the sun presently concentrated the odoriferous particles which rose to the surface and the gardener, supposing the water to have become corrupt, skimmed off the floating oil. In this operation [illegible] the globules burst, releasing a delightful fragrance.
